Ike Discusses Satellite Program With Cabinet, Defense Officials

Flu in District Is Asian

Four Deaths, Two In County, Probed To Determine if Flu Is Responsible

By UNITED PRESS

Health authorities were pretty certain today the outbreak of influenza-like illnesses in the Southwestern Pennsylvania area were caused by the Asian flu virus.

Dr. Arthur G. Baker, chief of the Allegheny County Health Department, said "it can now be assumed that most of the influenza-like diseases present now in the community are probably caused by Asian flu."

Four deaths, two in Pittsburgh and two in Westmoreland County, were being investigated by health authorities to determine if Asian flu definitely was the killer. All four deaths followed respiratory illnesses.

The latest was that of Lois Ann Sout, 12, of Hempfield Township, Westmoreland County. She died Thursday after a four-day illness.

Hospitals in Western Pennsylvania planned drastic curtailment of visitors to protect hospital employes and patients from exposure to the flu bug.

Hospital Rules

Robert M Sigmond, executive director of the Hospital Council of Western Pennsylvania, said each hospital would decide on its own system of protection. Generally, he said, any visitor suffering from a respiratory ailment—even a minor cold—would not be permitted to visit a patient. Also, patients not on the critical list would be permitted only one visitor a day.

Dr. Baker issued his statement following identification of the Asian flu virus in the Allegheny County area and after consultation with other physicians.

School absenteeism remained high in the Pittsburgh area but was reduced in neighboring counties.

The nation's flu outbreak, which has infected more than one million Americans so far, spread westward into Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa.

In the East, epidemic-stricken New York reported one flu suspected death Thursday to bring that city's total of such deaths to nine since the beginning of the month.

The latest outbreak of the ailment was at Omaha where 1,200 public high school children were absent with flu - like illnesses Thursday.

Inspection Canceled

A flareup of flu cases at Olathe, Kan., Naval Air Station forced cancellation of today's scheduled annual military inspection of the Navy - Marine Aerial Squadron. Fifty - seven servicemen at the base were down with the flu.

The Marion Independent School in suburban Cedar Rapids, Iowa, closed its doors today when 107 of its 461 pupils came down with the flu. Principal Beryl Weldon said teachers spent most of Thursday taking home children who became ill.

The U.S. Public Health Service in Washington estimated 1,077,000 persons have been stricken with flu through last Friday, with 350,000 new cases reported last week. It was the fourth straight week the incidence has climbed.

However, the service said the number of deaths blamed on flu and related complications "show no marked increase over normal occurrence at this time of year."

LEBANON, INDIA WARN THE UN — Lebanon's Dr. Charles Malik (left) and India's V. K. Krishna Menon speak out warnings in the UN in New York. Malik, first Arab statesman to speak out against Soviet intrigues in the Middle East, is warning Syria that alliance with Communism cannot aid Arab aims or resolve any Middle East conflicts; he said his country is on the side of the west, but that Lebanon would stick with the Arabs in case of any conflict with the west. Krishna Menon is appealing to the General Assembly not to "throw away" opportunities for control over outer space missiles, and urging suspension of nuclear tests as a first step toward disarmament.

West Disappointed At Russia's Attitude

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — Western delegates expressed disappointment today at Russia's "sit tight" attitude on disarmament.

They said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's speech in the main political committee Thursday showed the Kremlin is in no big hurry to make significant start on worldwide arms reductions.

The Russians, buoyed by getting an earth satellite into the skies before the United States, apparently feel they are in a position of power in which they can demand concessions from the West without making any in return, the delegates said.

The debate was scheduled to resume again today but the battle lines were drawn Thursday by Gromyko and U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr.

Lodge laid the Western disarmament proposals before the political committee and offered to give international studies of space control priority over other issues if there was general agreement to this.

Gromyko did not reply to Lodge's space control proposal. Nor did he mention Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev's offer to put the earth satellite and all pilotless missiles under international control as part of a general U.S.-Soviet agreement. However, he undoubtedly will do so before the debate is over.

Instead he repeated the Moscow objections to other Western arms proposals, reiterated the Soviet Union's own disarmament proposals and embarked on a slashing attack of Western policies on West Germany and the Middle East.

The only reference to outer space in Gromyko's speech was a warning that the danger of a nuclear arms race had been increased by the appearance of "rocket weapons . . . including intercontinental weapons capable of reaching any objective on earth."

Donner Parking To Be Prohibited

Effective Monday morning at 7 o'clock and continuing until further notice, there will be no parking permitted the entire length of Donner Ave., Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka said today.

Kuvinka said he has been informed that the state Highways Department will begin blacktopping Donner Ave. Monday.

The right lane, going west, will be paved first, allowing traffic to move in the left lane. Burrell Construction Co., general contractors, believes it can complete one lane in four days.

Fairhope Sale Cancelled by Supreme Court

The state Supreme Court yesterday approved cancellation of the sale of a $38,000 building in Fairhope.

A deed filed in 1951 revealed that the property was sold by Mr. and Mrs. John Stanko to their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Males.

In 1953 Stanko filed suit to recover the property, claiming he didn't sign the deed and didn't authorize anyone to sign it for him.

President Judge W. Russell Carr of Fayette County ruled in favor of Stanko and ordered the sale voided. The Males then appealed to Supreme Court.

They said Judge Carr's ruling was not supported by evidence and claimed there was no provision for them to recover money they had put into the property.

Supreme Court upheld Judge Carr's decree. The court, however ordered the decree modified so the Males will get a return on their investment in the building "less the value of use made of the property and rents received therefrom."

First Aid Course For Instructors

A Red Cross First Aid instructor's course will be held Oct. 14-18 at Greensburg High School.

The course will deal with new books on first aid and the instructor's manual. Many revisions have been made in the new manual, Thomas F. Preston, local Chapter's first aid chairman, announced.

There will be no other similar courses offered until next May. All instructors are urged to attend. Classes will be held from 7 to 10 p. m. on the five days.

Parente To Answer Stieska

Mayor Hugo J. Parente today said he will take advantage of a Westmoreland County Democratic rally Sunday at Polish National Association Hall, Monessen, to answer statements made against him Wednesday by Republican mayoralty nominee John R. Stieska.

Stieska, a registered Democrat, won the GOP nomination over Parente by write-in and sticker votes in the May 21 primary. Parente defeated Stieska for the Democratic nomination.

Stieska won the GOP nod after a legal battle that went to the state Supreme Court to settle a disputed question as to the validity of write-in votes on voting machines.

Fighting Statement

In winning the nomination, Stieska last Wednesday issued a fighting statement in which he promised to campaign vigorously against what he calls "political degeneration" in Monessen.

In his statement, Stieska said that Mayor Parente, who is seeking a fourth term, is "not indispensable. . . not honorable. . . not responsible for the material progress of the City as he claims."

Parente told The Daily Independent today:

"I'll have answers for his statements at Sunday's rally." He would not comment further.

Sunday's rally will see a gathering of all Democratic candidates for both city and county offices It will begin at 7:30 p. m.

State Assemblyman Anthony Petrosky, Slickville, is general chairman. Local committeemen are Anthony Czelen, chairman, and Stephen Wisyanski and John Harhai, co-chairmen.

Entertainment will be by the Duquesne University Tamburitzan Orchestra.

Newell Strike Ends; Workers Get Pay Boost

BROWNSVILLE, Pa. (UP)—The violence-marked General Chemical Co. strike at nearby Newell ended Thursday night with acceptance of a new two-year contract calling for an 18½-cent hourly wage increase.

Many of the firm's 127 employes returned to work on the 11 p.m. shift after 16 days of picketing. The agreement provides an immediate 15-cent hourly boost and an additional 3½ cents next year.

Agreement was announced in Uniontown where state Mediator labor T. E. Turnstall Jr. and Federal Mediator Henry Maggiola supervised talks between the company and District 50, United Mine Workers, which had begun on Wednesday.

• During the 16-day strike, rifle bullets were fired into chemical tanks at the plant. Last week end pickets blocked efforts of the firm to pump water from the compartments of a chemical barge, the company said. The barge sank.

Pricedale Man Being Held Here

Charles McCullough, 18, Box 223, Pricedale, is being held on an open charge by Monessen police today.

His arrest was made in connection with a missing check investigation.

Police are withholding further details until the investigation is complete.

'UN-AMERICAN,' SAYS FAUBUS — Continued operation of Central High School in Little Rock, Ark., under military guard is "impracticable, unworkable and un-American," Gov. Orval Faubus (seated, left) of Arkansas tells reporters in a Little Rock news conference. He accused the administration in Washington of "political hysteria."

Army Admits Plans For 'Trouble Troops'

WASHINGTON (UP) — Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker disclosed today that a now-revoked Army order would have created federal task forces for possible use in Little Rock-type integration crises.

In response to a demand from Chairman Richard B. Russell (D. Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Brucker revealed the text of the controversial Army directive which was dispatched Sept. 25 and rescinded the following day.

The order, sent by Army Chief of Staff Maxwell D. Taylor to the commanding general of the Continental Army Command at Fort Monroe, Va., called for the organization of task forces of 1,000 to 1,200 men in the 82nd Airborne, 3rd Infantry, 1st Infantry and 1st Armored divisions.

'Precautionary Measure'

The order said the task forces should be set up "as a precautionary measure in event troops are required in situations similar to that now current in Little Rock, Ark."

In addition, the order directed that the Continental Army Command determine "availability of military police units for this type duty."

It also directed the task forces to initiate training programs promptly, under a five-year-old field manual on "civil disturbances," and to "prepare plans for both air and motor movement."

Brucker said in a four-page letter to Russell that this type of training is included in training schedules "as a routine matter" but "occurs at varying times in the annual training cycle."

Donora Dial to Begin Oct. 20

The Bell Telephone Co. yesterday was authorized to eliminate four-party service at its Donora exchange Oct. 20 when the exchange is converted to dial operation.

Bell told the commission all of the 1,087 four-party subscribers and 70 multi-party users have agreed to take two-party service at a total annual increase of $9,000.

At the same time, Bell will expand the Donora base rate area to include the Eldora, Grand View, Highland Terrace, Rabe and Ridgeview Terrace developments. This move will reduce mileage charges of 322 subscribers an estimated $3,270 a year, the firm said.

Racket Probers Dig Deeper into Teamster Parley

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Rackets Committee dug deeper today into the records of the Teamster convention that boosted James R. Hoffa to the union presidency. The committee predicted the convention's "scandalous" events will wind up in the courts.

The committee staff is studying documents it subpenaed at about the time the Miami Beach, Fla., convention was electing Hoffa president of the union—the nation's largest.

The records were delivered to the committee earlier this week. They had been retrieved for the committee after being tossed into a hotel waste chute.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D. Ark.) said Thursday, on the basis of a preliminary examination of records of the convention credentials committee, they revealed a "shocking situation." Some records were missing, he said, and those furnished were "inadequate."

"Furthermore, we have found several instances where Mr. Dave Beck, the international president, instructed the credentials committee to disregard the Teamsters constitution.

"Without this dictatorial action on the part of Mr. Beck, Mr. Hoffa, the candidate of his choosing, could not have been elected president of the Teamsters," the chairman said.

Reds Promise Second Moon Will Be Sent Out in Near Future

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower met with his cabinet and top defense officials today in a continuing reappraisal of the U. S. missile and satellite programs.

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy and Assistant Defense Secretary William M. Holaday, the Pentagon's chief of missile research and development, met privately with the President before the cabinet session.

The twin White House meetings came on the heels of a Russian promise to send a second and more advanced satellite spinning around the globe next month—before the United States gets its first one into space.

It was the second day of high level administrations talks behind closed doors, continuing a reappraisal of the nation's missile and satellite programs which was touched off by the launching of the first Sputnik a week ago today possibly with an intercontinental ballistic missile.

All-Out Effort

After a meeting of Eisenhower and the National Security Council Thursday, defense officials indicated there would be an all-out effort to perfect an intermediate range ballistic missile.

At the same time Eisenhower and McElroy are under a steady drumfire of congressional criticism to speed up America's missile effort.

However, the big question remained: When will the United States seize back the initiative in the space rivalry with Russia as Sputnik I, the first man-made moon, continues to circle the earth.

The Soviets threw new heat into the race by claiming their second Sputnik may outdate U.S. satellites before they get off the ground starting in December. Russian weapons expert Lt. Gen. Anatoly A. Blagonravov said the second Red artificial moon will be packed with scientific instruments when it is sent up possibly on Red Army Day, Nov. 7.

"The American satellite will give less information than our next one," he confidently told newsmen Thursday at New York.

Around the world there were these other satellite developments:

—In Barcelona, Spain, space scientists said Russia's next big objectives are sending up a satellite to scan earth with television which would keep the entire world under constant watch.

—At the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge called for international action to check-rein space rockets before they "blow us to bits."

Photos From The Moon

—In Belgrade, Yugoslavia, a top Russian scientist, Alexander Sherbin, said the satellite now revolving around the world carries complete telephoto equipment for transmission of photographs back to Russia. But he said he did not know if the equipment is working.

—In New York, Dr. Kenneth Franklin of the Hayden Planetarium said the Sputnik is transmitting data in code on its radio signal. But he said the code is unknown to Americans.

North Charleroi Youth, Boy Held For Burglary

Joseph L. Tillman, 19, of 554 Isabella Ave., North Charleroi, and a juvenile boy, were apprehended by state police yesterday in connection with a burglary at the Bridle and Saddle Riding Club in Long Branch, between Speers and California.

The two were charged with taking four saddles and five bridles on Sept. 22.

Tillman pleaded guilty yesterday at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Evelyn Murphy, Speers, and was committed to Washington County jail.

The juvenile was placed into the custody of his parents.

All of the loot was recovered.

New Terms Offered In Trolley Dispute

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Railways Co. submitted a new contract offer to its operators today in an effort to head off a strike threatened for Sunday midnight.

Terms of the proposal were not disclosed.

Before the joint negotiating session got under way, union officials said if any offer was good enough to recommend to the membership, the threatened walkout would be off automatically.

Union by-laws provide that four days notice be given for a special membership meeting to act on a proposal. Bargainers are empowered to turn down offers but it is left to the membership itself to accept a proposal.

Today's proposal was submitted at a meeting called by Federal Mediator G. Harry Young and state Conciliator Joseph Bach, former coach of the Pittsburgh Steelers football team.

The original offer by the Pittsburgh Railways Company, which was refused by the AFL-CIO trolley-bus operators union, specified an increase of 10 cents per hour over a two-year period.

The recent approval by the Public Utility Commission of a fare increase of $1,078,000 annually has given impetus to hopes a strike can be averted.

Campaign Briefs—

Dent Takes Swipe at County Republicans

State Sen. John H. Dent, Jeannette Democrat, took one of his typical swipes at the Republican party in an address before some 150 Young Democrats Wednesday in Loyalhanna.

Before taking his verbal swings at the Westmoreland County Republicans, Dent praised the efforts of the Young Democrats and the party itself, stating:

"We are certainly blessed in this county, because we have a group of people with the nerve, fortitude and guts to stand up for what is right despite criticism."

He told the group that there is only one major issue before them in this campaign. He said, "The only major issue before you is to compare the record of the Democrats for the people, as to that of the Republican party which is dedicated to minority interests."

The senator went on to cite many of the improvements and social legislation the Democrats have given to this nation, state and county.

He then chided, "Oh' they say we are bossed, but I can remember all too well when this county was Republican and it was then fashionable to vote the straight ticket. Now, because we have wrested the county away from the few and given it back to you, they cry bossism, hit at one party government, and urge you good registered Democrats to split your ticket for one of their dear candidates.

"I say don't be fooled by this talk. The Republican party is the power party — the party of bosses. Just look at the names who directed the fates of that party 20 years ago, and check the record today. The Rials and the Pershings ran the county then, and

Six Allegheny Road Projects

Millions to Be Spent By State

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens has given Allegheny County tentative approval of six proposed highway and bridge projects planned in the Pittsburgh area.

Four county officials met with the newly appointed secretary Thursday to review projects they had discussed earlier with Stevens' predecessor, Joseph J. Lawler.

Stevens said "at first blush," he was favorably impressed with the plans the county submitted.

"My impression is that the county has done a good job and I hope the state can take part," he said.

The projects included:

—Glenwood bridge, which the county hopes to construct for $9,500,000 but wants approaches built by the state.

—The 66th St. bridge, a $9,750,000 county project in which the county wants the state to take care of approaches.

—Liberty tubes. The county plans to construct portals at the northern end for about $4,500,000 and wants the state to do similar work on the southern exits.

—Hulton bridge. The county wants the state to construct an underpass to eliminate a northbound traffic bottle neck on the northern end of the span.

—Cross-town boulevard in Pittsburgh. The county and city requested the route be put on the federal primary system.

—Penn - Lincoln Parkway. The county seeks to have the last five miles of the route on the western end taken over by the state as a limited access road.

Taking part in the meeting were John Walker and Howard B. Stewart, county commissioners, Levi Duff, county works director and John Matthews, county planning director.

Satellite

New Haven, Conn., reported sighting the last stage rocket which hurled Sputnik into space. It was the first official sighting in the U.S. of any part of the Red satellite which has been observed on its 95-minute orbit in other parts of the world.

—The Cambridge radio astronomy field station reported just before midnight the satellite was only 150 miles above the earth, the lowest it has been since it was launched a week ago today.

Rep. Richard M. Simpson (Pa.), chairman of the GOP congressional campaign committee, charged that the Democrats were raising "phony" issues by criticizing the administration's missiles program.

Accusing the Democrats of shedding "crocodile tears," Simpson said most House Democrats voted last May 29 for "drastic cuts" in funds directly affecting the missile program. He said that except for GOP support "we would not even be testing ocean-going guided missiles today, let alone be far advanced on the space missile project."

Here's Schedule For Satellite

Edgar Thomson Works Walkout

PITTSBURGH (UP)—About 230 maintenance employes walked off their jobs Thursday at U.S. Steel Corp.'s Edgar Thomson Works at Braddock to protest a "whistle-to-whistle" work order.

The order eliminated wash up time before quitting. The strikers, employed on rebuilding furnaces and boilers, had been accustomed to having 10 to 20 minutes to wash and dress before quitting time, a spokesman for Local 1219, United Steelworkers, said.

The walkout did not affect production at the plant, which employs 4,500 workers.

Meanwhile, a wildcat strike of 1,200 workers at the A.M. Byers Company plant in Ambridge ended Thursday. The strike began Tuesday night after two employes were disciplined for refusing job assignments.

Davis Refused New Trial; Faces Immediate Death

KITTANNING, Pa. (UP)—Robert Tallie Davis, 28, of Pittsburgh, was refused a new trial Thursday night and was sentenced immediately to death in the electric chair for the murder of a Leechburg housewife.

Davis was impassive as the new trial motion was refused by Judge J. Frank Graff.

The judge granted a motion by special prosecutor Samuel Strauss, assistant district attorney for Allegheny County, to transfer Davis from the Armstrong County Jail here to Western State Penitentiary at Pittsburgh. Strauss termed Davis a maximum security risk since he had two jail escapes on his record.

Davis was convicted by an Armstrong County jury of the bludgeon-slaying of Mrs. Emily Foster Shupe, 26, an expectant mother, last Jan. 30.

A date for his execution will be set by Gov. George M. Leader.

State Coroners Meet in County

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—The Coroners' Assn. of Pennsylvania opened its second annual convention here today with Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman scheduled to deliver the principal address at a banquet tonight.

About 150 coroners from throughout the state were in attendance, according to Westmoreland County Coroner Stephen D. Yoney.

State Sen. John H. Dent (D-Westmoreland) also will address the convention.

Supreme Court Rules Against Child's Father

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The state Supreme Court has rejected a father's attempt to collect damages from an insurance company for injuries to his child in a family automobile accident.

Justice Michael A. Musmanno filed a strongly worded dissent.

Plaintiffs in the unusual case were Luther F. Parks, of Mifflinburg, and his daughter, Karen Ann. Together, they sued the wife and mother, Mrs. Helen Parks, who was driving the family car at the time Karen suffered permanent physical and mental injury. The accident occurred in 1952 when Karen Ann was six months old.

By suing the mother, the father was attempting to obtain compensation from the State Automobile Insurance Assn., of Indianapolis, with whom he carried liability insurance.

In its decision Thursday, the Supreme Court said the "vast majority of the courts in the United States" deny children the right to sue either or both parents for damages. Any change in this tradition would disrupt "family unity," it asserted.

In his dissent Musmanno branded part of the majority opinion as "sheer sophistry."

"Why would a mother hate her child because, through payment of insurance money, her beloved offspring may have a chance to recover?" Musmanno asked. "Does public policy proclaim that a father may make such provision for the children of other parents, but not his own?"

Because of her injuries, Karen Ann has been placed in an institution and probably will remain there the rest of her life.

these same candidates run their party and would like to run our county again today."

Weiss in Vote Plea

"The GOP wants to return to power and control Westmoreland County," Judge David H. Weiss, Monessen, Democrat nominee for Common Pleas Court, told more than 250 Democratic party workers at a district meeting last night at William Penn Terrace.

He started off by saying,

"State Republican chairman George Bloom has already published statements telling the GOP that they must vote for the three in order to return this county to the reign of that party.

"Sure, the GOP wants a control of this county. They want to control it so they can give it back to the NAM (National Association of Manufacturers), and take eventual control of the state and nation, so they can destroy the favorable legislation the Democrats have placed into effect for you."

Continuing he said some persons are asking "what running for judge has to do with the record of the Democrats. It certainly has a lot to do with it because it is an election of a party against party and the Democratic philosophy against the Republican philosophy."

"Our philosophy is for the people. Ask them what they stand for. All of the candidates on this ticket came up the hard way. They weren't born with silver spoons in their mouths. All are experienced office holders and are all family men who understand your problems. They are all dedicated to you — not just a few."

The judicial candidate said all the judge candidates "think, act and feel the way you do. They have your interest at heart and they are equipped to render justice with mercy."

Weiss told the group that if continued in the high office, his doors will continue to remain open and he will continue to fight for all the people. In closing he stated,

"This is a wonderful team for you. A team of candidates from all sections of the county, and from all walks of life. A team that is represented by every faith, creed and nationality. The team's only reason for being is to carry out the wishes of the voters."

Other program speakers were Judge Edward G. Bauer, and District Attorney Alexander Sculco, candidates for the other judicial seats; Earl S. Keim, district attorney candidates; Howard Bricker, clerk of courts candidate; and Leo Sukala, candidate for prothonotary, and Dora M. Dunn, jury commissioner.

Tonight the candidates will be in West Newton for a district meeting in the Moose Hall Saturday night they will be at the Bradenville Fire Hall for a district meeting for the Derry area.

BUTLER, Pa. (UP)—Carl Pry, about 40, Greensburg RD 7, a construction worker, was crushed to death Thursday by a road roller he was operating on Route 8 south of here.

Moon Loses His Federal Court Appeal for Life

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Norman W. Moon, 31, Connellsville, sentenced to death for the courtroom slaying of a judge, lost a Federal Court appeal Thursday to have his sentence set aside.

Federal Judges Herbert P. Sorg, Rabe F. Marsh and John W. McIlvaine, in denying the appeal, ruled Moon had not exhausted all available remedies in state courts.

Moon recently won a stay of execution until Nov. 18.

Louis C. Glasso, Moon's attorney, argued his client's constitutional rights of due process had been violated. He said the state had ignored a finding of a sanity commission that the defendant was mentally ill when he shot Warren County Judge Allison D. Wade to death Jan 13, 1954, during a hearing on a non-support suit brought by his wife.

SOBLES SENTENCED AS SPIES — Convicted Red spies Jack Soble (far right) and wife Myra are escorted from federal court in New York after receiving sentences, seven years for him and four for her. A third spy, Jacob Albam, got five years.

Dionne Quint Weds In Simple Ceremony

MONTREAL (UP)—Annette Dionne left the fame of her girlhood behind today and married a 24-year-old finance company executive in a simple and private Roman Catholic ceremony.

Annette, one of the four surviving 23-year-old Quintuplets, and German Allard knelt at a church altar and exchanged wedding bands in the presence of a small group of relatives and friends.

Only two of the other Quintuplets, Marie and Cecile, were there. Yvonne was in a hospital with Asian flu. Emilie died during an epileptic seizure on Aug. 6, 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliva Dionne, parents of the Quints, drove to Montreal from Callander, Ont., Thursday and Annette walked to the altar on the arm of her father. Allard's father, Pierre Allard, a janitor in Drummondville, Que., was the bridegroom's best man.

Invitation Only

Wedding guests entered the modernistic Notre Dame de Satellette Church by invitation only. Police were on hand to keep all others out, including a small army of newsmen and photographers.

A reception in the form of a champagne lunch was held in the church basement following the ceremony.

The ceremony conducted by the Rev. Germain-Marie Lalonde, a friend of the Allard family and provincial father of the Holy Cross Order, united Annette and the brother of two girls who attended grade school with the Quints.

It was learned that Annette had promised to marry Allard last Sept. 15, the elder Dionnes' wedding anniversary. The news of their plans was leaked by Oliva Dionne early this week, and was first denied, then confirmed by Allard.

The newlyweds will spend a week-long honeymoon in the Laurentian Mountains, returning to live here where Allard is an assistant manager of a finance company.

Annette, who beats her sister Cecile to the altar by more than a month met Allard at a party two years ago. They dated steadily for a year before the surprise announcement of their wedding plans last week.

Cecile, who will marry 26-year-old television technician Pierre Langlois Nov. 23, was thought to be the first quint with marital intentions.

Trucking Firms Win Big Suit Against Railroads

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Attorneys for more than 24 eastern railroads today planned appeals of a federal judge's ruling granting 37 trucking firms $6.66 in their 250 million dollar damage suit.

The truckers, and the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, had accused the rails of waging a "campaign of villification and slander against the trucking industry" in the suit filed more than three years ago.

U. S. District Court Judge Thomas J. Clary Thursday awarded the truckers nominal damages of 18 cents. He ruled that the PMTA would receive other damages later "required because of the railroad's campaign of destruction of goodwill."

Judge Clary also dismissed a 120-million dollar counter suit by the railroads.

In Chicago, Edward Gogolin, vice president and general manager of the PMTA, said the decision was a "signal victory" for the trucking industry.

"We hope that as a result, the two great arms of American transportation will be able to work harmoniously," he added.

David I. Mackie, chairman of the Eastern Railroad President's Conference, said the conference "and the other defendants thoroughly disagree with Judge Clary's opinion. Appeals will be pressed promptly."

Five Day Forecast

Western Pennsylvania: Temperatures will possibly average four degrees below normal. Cool over the week end with warmer Tuesday. Mostly fair weather but rain may occur about Monday. Total amount may be one-or-two tenths inch.

Too Many Bears in New York Exchange

NEW YORK (UP)—The New York Stock Exchange firm of Cady, Roberts & Company, headlined an advertisement — "Too many bears; time to buy."

Wall Street caught up the slogan and admitted that the financial district was overrun by bruins —wooly ones, too, able to survive a cold winter.

Gloom has pervaded the financial community for some time. For a while it was induced by the dullness in the market which made the brokers sad. Then when volume picked up the Russian satellite was seized on for an excuse for bearishness.

The more conservative market analysts aren't boisterously bearish but they are cautious and many of them anticipate even further declines in the market. They hope the drop will not penetrate the 400 level in the Dow-Jones industrial average, but many think the figure will get near the spot.

Inertia is keeping the decline going, say these experts, just as it keeps the man-made moon circling the earth in its own orbit. And inertia keeps things going, according to physicists until some external force comes along to stop the motion.

Many reasons given for selling recently have been excuses to sell rather than reasons, the market men assert.

In not a few instances the selling has come from professional traders who take whatever side of the market they believe will bring out a few dollars for their pocketbooks.

These professionals cannot really be classed in a group as bears. They are bears one day and bulls the next—whichever way the wind is blowing the stock prices.

The Cady Roberts firm in its advertisements is trying to dispel the bearishness by arguing that inflation hasn't gone, and that stocks should rise again.

"Our fight with world Communism," says the advertisement, "forces us to maintain at any cost a strong national economy and defense. It also requires us to continue to aid our allies in every way throughout the world. This spells enormous amounts of money and continued inflation indefinitely.

We Heard It— ABOUT the VALLEY

(By The Independent News Staff)

Was 'Pie-eyed'

Bob Venneri of Belle Vernon concedes he was slightly "pie-eyed" the other day even though he shies away from strong drink.

After work Bob went to a Monessen parking lot to pick up his car. There on the hood was a freshly-baked pie.

Glib Tongue Fails

George Cieply, manager of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce, is seldom at loss for words.

But there was a time when his glib tongue failed him.

Recalling an experience during World War II in France, Cieply confirmed this story the other day:

"I was riding a horse near Paris when the animal suddenly bolted off. I tried to stop it by reining up and yelling 'whoa.' But it didn't work. I was eventually thrown and suffered some cuts and bruises.

The owner of the horse later explained why the animal failed to react. It was quite simple. The horse understood only French and I didn't know the French word for whoa."

She Is Honest!

June Brightwell of Brownstown spent some time looking over dresses at a Belle Vernon store the other day, but she made no purchases.

"There wasn't a single clerk around to wait on me," she explained. "I was the only one in the store."

No Wonder!

A local man with two tickets on the 50-yard line for tomorrow's Army-Notre Dame game cancelled plans to go to the game and wanted to sell the tickets at $5 each, the regular cost. He asked a steward at his club to post a notice to this effect on the bulletin board.

Three days passed and there were no takers. Curious, the man went to the club and looked at the bulletin board. The notice read: "For sale! Two $50 Army-Notre Dame tickets on 5-yard line".

Confident Man!

Confidence Department: John (Mimi) Sucevic, Democratic nominee for Third Ward alderman, must really be sure of getting the post at the Nov. 5 general election. He already has rented an office and obtained desks, chairs and other furniture.

It Never Fails

It doesn't pay to use someone else's name, a Fayette City R. D. man discovered last week.

Bert Osborne, a rabid football fan, was visiting his brother-in-law, Charles Gilbert, Perryopolis R. D., and while there picked up a Daily Independent football contest blank. Osborne filled it in and signed Gilbert's name to it.

You can guess who won the contest and the $15 that goes with it. Yes it was Gilbert. At last notice, Gilbert said he will give the money to Osborne.

Who's on First?

The final game of the World Series was being explained to a Monessen feminine fan . . . "it's the sixth inning and the Braves are ahead 4-0";

"Oh!" says milady, "The Giants have to get four runs to tie".

Well, anyway she was in the right city.

Presbyterian Men to Hold Annual Redstone Meeting Tuesday Night

The Redstone Council of Presbyterian men's annual fall rally will be held Tuesday at 8:15 p. m. at Rehoboth Presbyterian Church in Rostraver Twp.

All laymen of Presbyterian churches are invited to participate.

Dr. Francis Bruce Speakman of the Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, will be featured speaker.

Dr. Speakman, a graduate of Princeton where he later served on its seminary faculty, is well known throughout the Presbyterian Church as a speaker and author. He is a contributor to the church's monthly magazine, Presbyterian Life, and has written a number of books which have been well received.

The sponsoring Redstone Council is the laymen's organization with Redstone Presbytery which encompasses 63 churches in Fayette County and the southern portions of Allegheny and Westmoreland counties.

Its annual rally will include the election and installation of officers for 1958 who will replace the incumbents headed by President R. Lee McFadden Jr. of McKeesport.

Other current officers are:

Carl L. Russell, Belle Vernon, vice president; M. Robert Hunter, West Newton, corresponding secretary; Byron Chaplain Jr., Liberty Borough, recording secretary, and Kenneth B. Porter, Fairchance, treasurer.

The nominating committee is made up of William Heath, Belle Vernon, chairman, and Wallace A Yoder, Liberty Borough, and Ralph Andrews, Scottdale.

State VFW to Work for Korean Bonus Passage

HARRISBURG (UP)—The head of the Pennsylvania Department, Veterans of Foreign Wars, said today the state's young Republican and Democratic organizations will work for passage of a constitutional amendment setting up machinery for a 150 million dollar Korean War bonus.

William J. Tepsic, Pittsburgh, said both organizations had indicated a desire to cooperate in gaining favorable support for the bonus at the Nov. 5 elections. Tepsic said the VFW's Korean bonus data was given to the junior political groups.

Passage of the amendment and enabling legislation by the 1959 Legislature would enable the state to pay Korean campaign medal winners $15 a month for overseas duty and $10 for stateside service. All others would receive $10 a month. The maximum payment would be $500.

Federal Aid For Sewage Plants Cited

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Sanitary Water Board said today it has recommended six municipalities to the U.S. Public Health Service as eligible to receive federal aid totaling nearly one million dollars to help in construction of sewage treatment plants.

The municipalities and the amount of each grant requested were:

Greenville, Mercer County. $250,000 toward a $1,265,000 project; Radnor Twp., Delaware county $150,945 for a $503,151 project; Bethel, Allegheny County, $250,000 for a $1,681,250 proposed plant; Osborne, also Allegheny County, $36,000 for a $122,000 project; Hopewell Twp., Beaver County, $231,000 for a $770,000 project; and Doylestown, Bucks County, $7,500 toward a $235,000 plant.

Karl M. Mason, director of the Bureau of Environment Health, said the total of grants requested was $989,045, and the estimated cost of construction was $4,576,401. Mason said 77 municipalities have made application for federal aid funds. Of the total, 43 had met requirements for favorable consideration, he said, with selections for recommendations made according to priority ratings.

Bridge Tourney Winners Listed

There were nine tables in play last night when the Magic City Bridge Club met at the Charleroi Elks Club.

North-south winners were Mrs. E. J. Feeney of Brookline and Mrs. James P. Ferguson of Belle Vernon, first; Allen Levin of Canonsburg and Mrs. Frederic Feldman of Belle Vernon, second.

East-west high score holders were Mrs. Dave Rosenberg and Renie Henry, both of Charleroi, first; Thomas Mulligan of Ingomar and Mrs. Charles Rosenbloom of Charleroi, second.

Community Fund Board Meeting

A meeting of the Monessen Community Fund board of directors will be held at 7 p.m. tonight in the Chamber of Commerce office at 335 Schoonmaker Ave.

President William J. Huston will preside. All members are urged to be present.

PTA Plans for Activities

At an executive meeting of the Monessen Parent Teacher Association held last night in the office of Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of schools, plans were completed for several activities.

The program was outlined for the unit meeting to be held next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the High School auditorium. Guest speaker will be Georgette Vernaccini, daughter of Mr and Mrs. Everett Vernaccini of Montraver Dr.

Miss Vernaccini, a local High School student, will tell of the time spent in Greece this summer as an exchange student under the supervision of American Field Service. She will exhibit some of the articles brought back from her trip, and answer any questions asked by the members attending.

Continuing with the Greek program theme, a group of members of the G.A.P.A. Young Ladies Lodge will present a dance.

Homeroom mothers from the Jefferson School will be hostesses with Mrs. Denver Rhome as hospitality chairman and Mrs. Rip Menefee as building chairman.

Plans were also furthered for the smorgasbord to be served under the direction of the ways and means committee on Oct. 22 in the High School cafeteria. It will be open to the public.

Another major project of the ways and means committee will be the annual presentation of the Duquesne University Tamburitzans on Nov 7.

NEAR DEATH, REFUSES BLOOD — Mrs. Elizabeth Denno lies near death from intestinal tract bleeding in Haverhill, Mass., hospital, but refuses the blood transfusions that surely would save her. She is a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect. She has no objection to an operation, however, but doctors fear she has lost so much blood she could not take an anesthetic. Mrs. Denno cites the Biblical injunction against "feeding on the blood" of a fellow man.

Washington Program Of Tax Change Costly

Expenditures in Washington County's new equalized tax assessment program will go over the half-million dollar mark before the end of the year.

The new permanent property record system will not be finished by year's end, and heavy additional expenditures will be required to complete the program.

Figures show that up to the end of August of this year, closely estimated expenditures on the program over a period extending back to 1952 total $487,000 so that even now a month and a half later, this probably tops the half-million mark.

The program will not be finished for the 1958 deadline when the law states the program must be put into operation. For one thing, the basic field work and mapping will not be completed by January. For another, even after the field surveys are finished and maps made, the big job of the actual assessment still remains.

The cost of this phase alone has been estimated to cost as much as $250,000.

Field work is finished in all of the county's 32 boroughs, in Monongahela and in 12 of the county's 31 townships.

As for the mapping project, all 32 boroughs are in the completed list with one exception. No mapping has been started of any of the 31 townships nor the cities of Washington and Monongahela.

The new assessment program will be a system of maps showing all properties in the county, keyed to a card index system containing one information card for each property which is a permanent record of changes of title, improvements and other pertinent material.

There are now 48 employes which include the supervisor, Paul Pettit, two field work supervisors and 22 field workers.

Methodist Social Union Meeting

The annual meeting and banquet of the Methodist Social Union of the Pittsburgh Conference will be held at First Methodist Church, Pittsburgh, at 6:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 18.

Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke, resident bishop of the Pittsburgh area of the Methodist Church, will be guest speaker. Music will be provided by the Men About Town Quartette. Dr. Aneurin Bodycombe director and accompanist, and Lola Werlinich, soprano soloist.

The membership of the Social Union included ministers, lay leaders and members of the Methodist churches in the Pittsburgh Conference. Its purpose is the promotion of Christian fellowship among members and friends of the churches in the conference.

Lecture Series At W&J

The Washington and Jefferson College lecture series which has proved popular in past years with both college and community audiences will begin on Oct. 16 at 10 a.m. in the college chapel.

Residents of the area are again invited to attend the series of seven presentations featuring outstanding persons in science, literature, music and drama. Appearing on Oct. 16 will be George Kerstein, publisher of The Nation, one of America's oldest and foremost journals of critical opinion. He will talk on "The Importance of Dissent."

Programs to follow are: November 7; Broadus Mitchell, economist, author and professor of economics at Rutgers University will speak on Alexander Hamilton.

December 4; the Concert Artists of Pittsburgh New Friends of Music will play. This musical group consists of artists who are expert in both chamber music and solo performances.

February 4-5; George Finckel, noted cellist will render a program including selections by Bach, Beethoven and modern composers. Finkel is first cellist with the Rodchester Civic Orchestra and was a member of the Stradivarious Quartet during 1950-51.

March 6; Arnold Ross, celebrated actor who has won fame for his Shakespearean roles, will appear.

April 8-9; Arthur Compton, eminent scientest and educator will give a series of talks under the theme, "Science and Freedom." Dr Compton will also meet with faculty and student groups for informal discussions.

This year's lecture series has been programed by the W. & J. for the purpose of bringing students and community residents into closer contact with persons whose exceptional talent and abilities are helping to shape the different facets of our life.

Editorials—

Brotherhood Runs Amok on the Platform

THE THREE Democratic candidates for judge in Westmoreland County have been making quite a point of the fact each of them is of a different religious faith. The implication is that here is something for everybody, no matter the church you attend, and isn't it wonderful to have a party so considerate of everyone?

This spirit of brotherhood so consumed Judge David Weiss at a recent campaign rally that he was moved to a new summit of political selflessness.

The Democrats were staging a rally in Arnold this week. A good bit of the oratory was devoted to a defense of Alexander Sculco, a party judge candidate who had been roughly handled in an editorial appearing in the Valley Daily News of Tarentum.

Judge Edward Bauer, an incumbent who is also a candidate, was among those who extolled Sculco as a sterling character and a jewel among district attorneys. But it was left to Judge Weiss to say how much Sculco really means to the boys. He was quoted in the New Kensington Dispatch as declaring,

"If Alex Sculco is not elected for judge, I won't want to be elected, and neither does Judge Bauer."

Judge Weiss was simply carried away by an emotion of the moment. Because in his home town where it is known he wants to be judge so bad it hurts, it is also known he would not lose his yen for the bench if Sculco didn't make the grade.

It is rather significant too that no such generosity was attributed to Judge Bauer or to Sculco with respect to Judge Weiss. The dopesters who figure these things in advance say that Judge Weiss is bottom man on the Democratic totem pole. If he falls off, tears shed by the remaining brothers will be strictly crocodile.

True, it might be quite cozy for the Democratic courthouse machine if these three were elected judge so that particular commodity known as Westmoreland justice could be dispensed another ten years. But it just could be that the voters will realize coziness is not a fit state of affairs between a county court and an unprincipled political gang. An antidote would be the election of the three Republican candidates and the removal of the court from this brazen alliance.

Sputnik Goes to War--Cold That Is

THIS COMMENT is decidedly out of tune with the great indignation we've been reading about in the papers over Sputnik.

We make bold to suggest that it's just as important for each of us to keep his feet on the ground and his head on his shoulders as it is for the Russians to have launched a space satellite. Perhaps that's just the type of thing to be expected from a guy who writes editorials instead of looking through a telescope, and of course we have the right to be wrong.

We don't belittle the Soviet achievement. We can even swallow hard and go along with the President in his congratulations to the Russians. He went on to observe, however, that there wasn't really a race as far as we were concerned. The project of the International Geophysical Year included plans for earth satellites. We had publicized our efforts to a considerable extent, including the approximate launching time and were proceeding without undue haste on this course, anticipating that the scientific information resulting would be widely shared by scientists everywhere.

Russian cooperation with respect to Sputnik, however, has been less than wholehearted. They did not announce the launching date in advance; they changed the wavelength agreed upon thus rendering much existing tracking equipment useless until it is changed; they sent Sputnik on an orbit that misses most of the tracking stations set up throughout the world.

This may be peaceful coexistence as defined in Moscow, but it is hardly the kind of scientific cooperation the non-communist world is contributing to the International Geophysical Year.

It seems evident that while Russia may have some scientists who would join the brotherhood of other scientists, they don't happen to work in a free atmosphere. Their contribution to science has been subverted to the propaganda use of the state. Sputnik has been drafted into the cold war.

Who's surprised? We ought to keep from stampeding face-first into these booby traps. We just make them that much more effective.

We see no alternative to dismissing classes for another week while the scholastic football schedule is put back in order.

Monessen Police Chief Michael Kuvinka has found the only way to make a curfew stick for juveniles is to blow the whistle on parents.

Merry-Go-Round—

Hits Abuse Heaped on Scientist

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — One of the least talked about but very real reasons why the United States is lagging behind Russia in scientific development, according to top scientists, is the witch-hunting tactics of U. S. government agencies. Scientists have been investigated, hounded, and discouraged from working for the government.

Mr. Pearson

Most notable case was that of Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, in charge of the government's atomic project at Los Alamos, N. M., who did such a notable job of speeding production of the atomic bomb. He was publicly investigated on the order of Chairman Lewis Strauss of the AEC and his government security clearance removed. Oppenheimer had been entrusted with the most vital secrets of the war, yet after the war he was considered a security risk.

His inventive brain is now lost to the government. While this is a loss, a much greater loss was the effect on other less-known scientists. An untold number have either got out of government projects or shied away from working for the government.

It happens that scientists tend to be inquisitive free thinkers. They have challenging minds. If they hadn't they probably wouldn't be able to develop such revolutionary projects as the A-bomb, H-bomb, and earth satellites. And they don't relish the prospect of having their ideas scrutinized by Admiral Strauss, Senator McCarthy, or Vice President Nixon when the latter was master-minding the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Dr. Urey Hounded

The public has little conception of the lengths to which witch-hunting has been carried.

When Dr. Harold Urey of the University of Chicago, one of the original builders of the A-bomb, was traveling through Europe last year, he found himself trailed by State Department agents. Finally he demanded a showdown, called State Department officials into his office and wanted to know why they were hounding him. They apologized.

Dr. Urey did the research on heavy water, on uranium 235, and discovered the hydrogen atom of atomic weight 2. He is one of the most eminent physicists in the world. He had contributed greatly to the defense of his country during the war. And if he was trailed by State Department agents you can get some idea of what may happen to younger, less-known scientists.

Here is the roll-call of younger scientists, some of whom made mistakes, but all of whom were hounded out of government with repercussions which discouraged other scientists:

Frank Oppenheimer, brother of Robert, who worked on the A-bomb project at the University of California, was investigated by the House Un-American Activities Committee, and lost his government clearance. Oppenheimer admitted he made mistakes in his political associations. A brilliant scientist, he is now unable to get a scientific job and is working on a small cattle ranch in Colorado.

Bernard Peters, a refugee from Hitler and a naturalized citizen, worked on the atomic project during the war, was investigated for his political associations, lost his government clearance and is now teaching at the Tata Research Institute in Bombay, India.

David Bohm of the University of California is one of the leading authorities on the behavior of thermonuclear gases. This is of vital importance right now. After a Congressional investigation he lost his security clearance, and is now teaching in Israel.

Joseph Weinberg, better known as Mr. X, a brilliant scientist who once was a member of the Communist Party, worked on the A-bomb project at the University of California, lost his job, was prosecuted for perjury, but acquitted. Unable to get a scientific job, he is now working for an optical company.

How France Could Do It

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

PARIS — It takes no great journalistic instinct to land in Paris when a French government has fallen and another is in process of being patched together.

It can happen any week and it is happening now at the worst possible time (war in Algeria) and under the worst possible circumstances (runaway prices and a weak franc).

Mr. Drummond

Twenty-three governments have gone in and out of the revolving door of the National Assembly since the end of the war. One lasted two days, another five weeks, another six weeks. The life-span of only two French governments has exceeded one year — and then not by much.

This can't go on forever. It may as well be that it can't go on for very much longer without the gravest economic and political consequences — a deteriorating economy, further devaluation of the franc, and at the bleak, bitter end of the road. . . resort to some form of authoritarian dictatorship whether from the Gaullist right or the Communist Left.

This is not an attractive sight nor an attractive prospect, either for France or for Europe or for the free world.

But it will go away only if something adequate is done about it in time.

Thus far nothing but political patch-work is in the making. You find some Deputies and occasionally a newspaper talking about bold constitutional reform, such as establishing a government of divided powers in France comparable to the American system with an independent executive who could not be overthrown by Parliament.

But this is unrealistic talk designed to focus attention upon what won't be done and thus to keep from doing anything at all.

One cannot fail to be impressed by the contrast between how much French thinking has contributed to democracy in so many countries and how little the French people have done to master the functioning of their own democracy at home.

It seems to me that there are three underlying weaknesses at the heart of French democracy which contribute to the instability of its governments:

1 — The French people have a very low estimate of and a massive disdain for their politicians — and constantly say so.

2 — The French politicians have a very low estimate of the French voter — and never say so.

3 — There is little candid communication, either way, between the French politicians and their constituents, so little frank discussion of the country's real problems is to be almost non-existent.

When I say that most of the French people disdain most of their politicians, I do not mean that the French voters fail to go up to the polls. They vote in large numbers but suppose, for example, a powerful monarch selected his council of ministers and then left the country for five years and kept no contact with what was going on. It would be nearly the equivalent of abdication. In many ways this is exactly what the French people do with their government — vote in the Assembly and then forget about it for five years, a kind of mass-scale political abdication.

A French citizen wouldn't think of writing to his "Congressman," to his Deputy. It just isn't done. You find little discussion, either in the Assembly or in the Press, which informs the French housewife that what the Government does in Paris has anything to do with the high prices she pays at the market or that the $1,800,000,000 a year Paris is putting into the Algerian war has anything to do with inflation at home and the weakness of the franc.

Most of the French press joins in this conspiracy of silence and its effect is to insulate much of the French public from an awareness of France's real problems.

Lack of candor with the public is the clearest evidence of French politicians' low estimate of the voter. It leads to the most dangerous kind of political indifference and I cannot escape the view that if the French voter wanted better government he would get it.

There is, I believe, one modest, useful constitutional reform which would go a long way toward creating more stable and more durable French governments.

During the years of the Wiemar Republic in the Twenties the German governments were as weak and revolving as the French governments have been during the past eleven years. When the Bonn constitution was being drafted the Germans were determined to avoid this grievous effect. They hit upon a simple and effective device. It is this:

Under the German constitution the parties in the Bundestag cannot overthrow the Chancellor unless they are able simultaneously to agree upon a successor.

In a word, there can be no successful negative vote against one Chancellor unless there is a positive vote to support another.

In this period of genuine Franco-German friendship and cooperation, what better than that Paris should draw on Bonn for a constructive and needed political reform?

The Woman's View—

Ironing Board May Be Thing of Past

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP)—The ironing board, once the mainstay of washday, may be on its last legs.

From a variety of textile authorities comes word that wash and wear is a reality for many cottons and synthetic fabrics. This means no ironing—not even that touch-up we've been used to giving the wash and wears in the last few years.

Gay Pauley

Here is what the textile people promise:

The DuPont Co., which makes orlon, dacron, nylon and other synthetics, demonstrated automatic wash and wear for a whole group of women's fashions, scheduled to appear in retail stores early next year.

The Agriculture Department said its researchers have developed "truly wash and wear" cottons.

A century-old shirt manufacturing firm said ironing of shirts will be a "lost art" in 10 years.

A spokesman for Dan River Mills said wash and wear will be a "permanent thing" in five years.

The DuPont Co. Wednesday ushered in a "whole new era" in women's fashions, with tailored suits, dresses and sportswear coming from home washer and tumble dryer "as if freshly pressed." The company said the no-ironing is possible through the built-in qualities of the fabrics, plus new methods of garment construction — trims and such designed to take the beating a machine gives them.

Fabric combinations included orlon-cotton, dacron-cotton, dacron-rayon, and dacron-orlon.

DuPont said it expected the success of wash-wear in women's clothes to match what already has happened in men's wear. It reported that by spring and summer, 1958, there will be 37 men's wear manufacturers offering no-iron apparel. . .that more than two million men's garments will be produced in the wash-wear category. At present, six firms are working with DuPont in the women's field.

In Washington, the Department of Agriculture said it had produced no-iron cottons which don't develop seam pucker even after repeated launderings.

USDA's southern regional research laboratory told of dresses which held the box pleats after washing. . .of one shirt which was still presentable after 51 launderings.

Percentages Rising

Sylvan Geismar, president of the Manhattan Shirt Co., said the wash and wear cottons will make ironing of shirts obsolete in 10 years. He told the National Association of Retail Clothiers and furnishers that by spring, 30 to 50 per cent of his company's line will be in the no-iron category.

"About 80 per cent of our dress goods and shirtings are wash-wear," said Harry Ferguson, vice president in charge of merchandising and sales at Dan River Mills, one of the big all-cotton firms. "In a year's time, it will be 100 per cent. Wash and wear will be a permanent thing in five years."

The no-iron finish on cottons is applied by chemical process, in which the fiber is impregnated with a resin. The method got going right after World War II and now the finishes will "last the life of the garment, if applied properly," said Ernest Stewart of the National Cotton Council.

Stewart said the housewife can starch the no-irons "but if she does, she will have to press them."

In synthetics, the non-wrinkle qualities are part of the fiber construction—sort of a "baked in" no-iron.

The Lighter Side—

Leisure Time Problem Really Getting Serious

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—I have been reading, in my leisure time, a weighty study of the great coming problem of what to do with your leisure time. This is no joking matter. In coming years, the machines are going to give us free time—plenty of it.

Already there is growing up a regular profession of recreation in which many people are making a life work of doping out what everybody else should do when not working.

I have always thought I had this problem solved. I have a knack for loafing and, as a matter of history, during one whole year in the great depression of the 1930's there was a remarkable flowering of my ability to stare absently into space, like a cow.

However, space-staring is not recommended in the present study. Indeed, the suggestion is thrown out that we may begin working harder in our leisure than we do at work and that job-time may become our spare time—a concept that already has me dizzy.

The study, in the form of papers by numerous experts, occupies an entire edition of the bimonthly "annals" of the American Academy of Political and Social Science. In one section, Dr. Margaret Mead, the ethnologist, says that the generation which has married since World War II has shifted the balance to the home as the center of existence.

Plan At Home

The car, the TV set, pets, babies, do-it-yourself are contributory to home life as play, Dr. Mead says. However, do-it-yourself plus five children "besides being delightful, is strenuous, time consuming, backbreaking. . ."

Hence: "The job outside the home, if not seen as recreation in the spiritual sense, is becoming recreation in the physical sense. It is a relief from the exactions of the close personal life at home, a chance for a little peace and quiet, a quiet smoke, time to collect one's thoughts."

Well, isn't that fine? But what I like is a later sentence:

"If a man is doing the best he can, getting up at night with his young babies, taking them off their mother's hands as soon as he gets home, or perhaps getting supper because she has a part-time job too, it is unfair to ask him to wear himself out at work."

Now we're getting someplace. That's exactly the way I feel about it, and I hope my boss is listening. Where did you go? "Out." What did you do? "Nothing — I went to work for a while."

No Turning Back

In a concluding article of the series, Dr. James C. Charlesworth, president of the American Academy of Political and Social Science, says we certainly can't return to the days of Thomas Jefferson, when 94 per cent of Americans lived on farmsteads. The farmer and his wife worked seven days a week, 14 hours a day, but were proud and interested in their jobs because they were everything from soil analysts to furniture makers, clothes makers, and Indian fighters.

Now, short work-time, monotonous, boring mechanized jobs, and early retirement pose a recreation challenge. He proposes compulsory teaching of recreational skills in schools (same as literature, history, mathematics), state departments of recreation, and acquiring land now for future recreation.

He is pretty bitter about "mass spectation" — thousands watching a few professionals, without themselves engaging in any recreation: "Herein dwells a dark threat to American democracy, for if people are trained to sit and watch professionals in sports and other recreation, they will also sit and watch while some ambitious busybodies take their government away from them and operate it."

Quotes from the News

By UNITED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS — Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, reiterating his nation's demand for a suspension of nuclear tests:

"We think that we should take into account what has happened, not in terms of fear, saving of face or national pride, but in view of the fact that we have entered a new planetary epoch."

BARCELONA, Spain — One of the United States' top military scientists, (who declined use of his name), on space travel:

"Space is the next major area of competition. If we lose this one, we might as well quit."

WASHINGTON — U. S. Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney, giving Japanese painted toys a clean bill of health:

"There...is no occasion for special alarm at this time concerning the allegation that toys of foreign manufacture were especially dangerous in this connection."

VIENNA — U.S. Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N.Y.), the first director-general of the International Atomic Energy Agency:

"The leading posts in the agency will be filled in such a way as to give the broadest possible representation to all the world's major nuclear powers. That, of course, includes the Soviets."

Eagles Auxiliary In Guest Meet

Grand officers and officers from the newly formed Donora lodge were guests at a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Eagles held last night at the Aerie Home, Schoonmaker Ave.

Those attending were Grand Officers Virginia Turner and Adeline Navarro of Pittsburgh, Ann Bagay, secretary; Louise Wincer, treasurer, Elsie Cardis, trustee and Louise Snyder, outside guard, all of Donora Auxiliary.

The grand officers both spoke briefly, and Mrs. Navarro comended Mrs. Min Crum on her work in getting new members for the organization. She also stressed the current membership drive.

Mrs. Betty Gedeon, local president, was in charge of the session which began with ceremonies conducted by Mrs. Ann Kantsi, conductor and Mrs Crum, chaplain.

Routine reports were given by Julia Fritz, treasurer, Jane Cherokl, secretary and Josephine Boyd, trustee.

Plan Dedication

Plans were made for the monolith dedication at City Park on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The auxiliary presented the large tablet bearing the Twenty-third Psalm inscription to the city. The tablet is similar to the one donated by the Eagles Lodge previously. It is inscribed with The Lord's Prayer"

Thank you cards were received for contributions made to the Monessen Public Library and the Cancer Society.

A card party was planned for Oct. 22 with Mrs. Rose Waxman as chairman. Assisting her will be Ann Caricato, Ann Spiegelberg, Sophie Murin, Emma Kroeschel, Julia Monack, Catherine Huscroft and Patricia Stetsko.

A Halloween party was also planned. It will be held on Oct. 24 with Laura Hammerash as chairman. On the committee will be Ruth Laughland, Stella Andrescovich, Margaret Smith, Rose Ambrose, Helen Harrison, Catherine Hotchkiss, Ann Canova and Helen Vivio.

Serve Dinner

A social hour followed. Mrs. Crum presented a gift to Mrs. Helen Perozzi, who acted as chaplain during her illness.

The hall was decorated wtih fall flowers and leaves for the guest meeting. Table appointments for the serving of a spaghetti dinner were in harmonizing motif. On the serving committee were Marion Monios, Louise Nichols, Josephine Palluni, Helen Harrison, Edith Nichols, Helen Ninchak, Betty Parente, Jane Novakowski, Adeline Parente, Margaret Pankovich and Olga Lahey.

Special awards were won by Sophie Luoma, Margaret Griggs, Olga Lahey, Alma Blackwell, Ann Kantsi and Josephine Boyd.

Anniversary for Legion Ladies Past Presidents

The 10th anniversary of the organization of the Past President's Parley of the Ladies Auxiliary to Thomas McKee Post 28 American Legion was observed last night. The meeting was in the form of a covered dish dinner at the home of a social member, Mrs. Marteas Maher of Graham Ave.

Covers were laid for 16 members for the serving, and centering the table was a decorated birthday cake, which was baked and trimmed by Elizabeth Shawley. Mrs. Elizabeth Lamey, a charter member of the auxiliary, asked the invocation.

Mrs. Elizabeth Duvalll, who organized the group, was present. The prize winners during the evening were Mrs. Eva Altier and Bertha Reese.

Other past presidents in attendance were Ann Chesmar, Minnie Sedlar, Helen Fisher and Angeline Imbrogno.

Hodge-Johnston Nuptials Solemnized at Sewickley

Announcement is being made of the marriage of Harriet E. Hodge and James C. Johnston, which took place on Saturday, Sept. 28, in the Evangelical United Brethren Church of Sewickley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hodge of South Huntingdon Twp. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James C Johnston of Jacobs Creek.

The Rev. Ralph Brownfield, church pastor, heard the exchange of vows.

For her wedding attire the bride chose a white waltz length gown. It was styled with a fitted strapless bodice and a matching lace jacket. The full skirt was styled in tiers of lace. She wore a fingertip veil and carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Honor Attendant

Patricia Culp of South Huntingdon Twp. was the honor attendant. She wore a pale orchid ballerina length gown and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Ronald Grazetti of Ruffsdale served as best man. Ushers were Edgar Hodge, brother of the bride and Kenneth Heler of West Newton RD.

Mrs. Hodge, mother of the the bride, wore a winter white dress with red accessories. The mother of the bridegroom wore gray with red accessories. Both wore red corsages.

A family reception at the home of the bride supplemented the ceremony. Later the couple left for a short wedding trip in eastern Pennsylvania. They will reside in Youngstown, Ohio, where Mr. Johnson is employed.

Both young people are graduates of South Huntingdon Township High School.

Interest High in Cougar Tilt

All valley football eyes will be on Charleroi High School's stadium tonight when the Cougars do battle with unbeaten Ambridge . . . Ordinarily there would be some interest in a game involving a valley team but due to the flu having cancelled out practically all other football games in the area the Charleroi-Bridger battle of unbeatens is the only gridiron treat available . . . To add spice to the offering it should be a whale of a battle and fortunate for game-starved valley fans and Cougar faithful that it is such an interesting appearing game and not a soft spot in the schedule . . . Tonight's winner (if they don't tie) could pick up all the marbles in the WPIAL.

Homecoming at CSTC Tomorrow

It'll be homecoming game time at California Teachers College tomorrow afternoon when the Vulcans battle Shippensburg Teachers . . . A large crowd is expected to watch CSTC swing back into action after being forced to postpone last week's game with Lock Haven due to you know what (we're tired writing the word flu) . . . In fact the "bug" has sidelined Monessen's Fleming Mosely and he'll have to give up his starting left tackle slot . . . Brother Delmont will be at a guard post, however, so the Mosely's will be represented . . . Here's one for you baseball pool sharks, a bargeman in Germany fished a soccer pool ticket out of the Rhine River a half hour after he had lost it . . . It won him $15,000 in a weekly run-off.

The drums that have been beating for Alex Miteff as the next outstanding heavyweight boxing hopeful were almost completely silenced Wednesday night when Mike DeJohn cooled him in the first round after only a minute and 17 seconds of action . . . Maybe DeJohn is the new hope with his 34th victory against three losses and a draw and 25 of the wins by knockouts . . . Regardless of who won the World Series game yesterday (which was played after this was written) the 1957 classic will go down as a very exciting, drama-packed affair just as were the Dodger-Yank games of the past . . . The sidelining of Mickey Mantle was the only blur on the otherwise top-notch event.

Tough Break for Cipriani

You can't blame former Monessen High star Wayne Cipriani for figuring there's no justice . . . When the season started at Lafayette College, Wayne, a sophomore, was one of three quarterbacks in the running for the starting post but didn't get the nod in the opener . . . He saw some action, however, and impressed enough to be named to start when Donora's Pete Bozik, suffered a leg injury . . . Then, just before his first assignment as starting quarterback for the Maroon, he contracted the flu and has been sidelined again this week . . . Another former Greyhound, Robert Kopko, is doing quite well at Elon College at Elon, North Carolina, where he holds down a starting defensive end slot.

Burdette Series Hero, Kubek Wears Horns

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Loose-armed Lew Burdette wore the World Series halo today and tearful Tony Kubek wore the horns.

Somebody had to draw both items. For in a Series such as this, the pain and the plaudits run side by side.

That was the way it was as the Milwaukee Braves took the seventh and deciding game at Yankee Stadium Thursday.

It isn't pouring salt on an open wound to say that Kubek booted it. That's merely the facts, ma'am. It was his error which left an opening through which the inspired Braves drove four runs.

There is no way to say, meanwhile, if the Yankees had managed to get Don Larsen out of that inning—as a double play by Kubek would have done instead of leaving two men on base—whether the perfect game pitcher of a year ago would have been able to hold off Milwaukee.

Hurls Way Into Books

It would have been a sizeable chore, because the Yankees didn't get a run off Burdette throughout the nine innings, just as they had failed in 15 1-3 previous innings as they lost to him twice before. Burdette was only slightly less than magnificent as he hurled his way into the record books alongside such triple winners as Christy Mathewson, Urban (Red) Faber Jack Coombs, Babe Adams, Stan Coveleskie, and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen.

They did everything they knew in an attempt to upset him. Hank Bauer slugged his opening pitch for a double. Gerry Coleman led off with a hit in the seventh and, with the wiry infielder jittering around Burdette on second base and only one away, the Yankees began to yell "spitter" charges at the Mountain Man from West Virginia. His only reply was to strike out pinch-hitting Elston Howard and then retire the side. Then, when they loaded the bases on him in the ninth, he reared back and choked them off.

"Maybe he threw one or two spitballs," the Yankees agreed in their silent dressing room after they blew a chance to be the world champions for the seventh time in nine years. "But that man had good control, real good, and that screwball of his is sheer murder."

It was, indeed, even though he was pitching with only two days rest.

No Strain Till Ninth

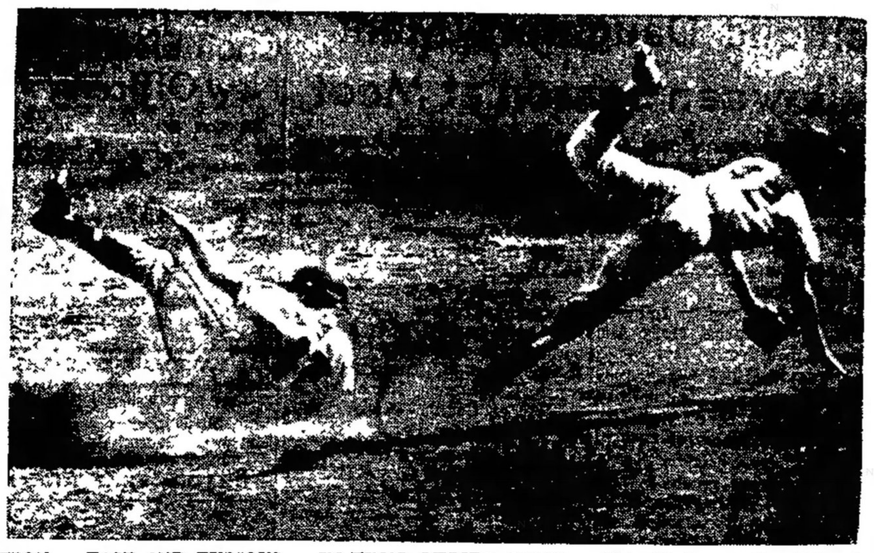
"I was a little tired at the end," Burdette admitted gleefully. "But I didn't have to strain until the ninth. Then Mathews pulled it out by getting that ball at third for the final forceout."

There was no glee in Kubek and it will be a long winter and an unhappy 22nd birthday for the young man Saturday. His being at third was a bad break in itself because if Casey Stengel hadn't listened to Mickey Mantle's pleadings to play, Kubek would have been in center field instead. But Casey listened, Mantle played, Kubek moved to third base—and the Yankees lost the Series.

Kubek sat long afterwards in front of his locker, head low, tears in his eyes and his lips quivering. Finally he looked up and said bitterly:

"It was a bad throw. What else can I say?"

Nothing, actually. Because that was the event which decided who should wear the horns and who should wear the halo.



ACTION — FAST AND FURIOUS — IN FINAL SERIES GAME — Bob Hazle of the Milwaukee Braves is safe at second on a dramatic slide in the hectic third inning of the final World Series game in New York's Yankee Stadium, Jerry Coleman, Yankees' second baseman, tumbles through the air to grab Tony Kubek's bad throw on Johnny Logan's grounder. Hazle went on to score the first, and what proved to be the decisive run of the game on Eddie Mathews' double. Score, 5-0.

W. Newton Game 'On' Tomorrow

West Newton High School, one of the few schools in the district not too hard hit by the flu to postpone it's football contest this week, will battle East Huntingdon tomorrow night at the East Huntingdon field beginning at 9 o'clock.

The game was originally carded for tonight.

The postponement was made so as not to conflict with the Scottdale-Ramsay game being played in that area Friday night. The East Huntingdon field is located behind the high school at Alverton. In former years games have been played at Mt. Pleasant.

Saturday night's clash finds two young improving clubs facing each other. The East team, coached by Richard Bosnic, is in the process of rebuilding and has been showing improvement in each game. They have lost four straight games, to South Huntingdon, Trafford, Avonworth, and Ramsay. However the East team has had no trouble moving the ball as first downs made in each game testify. The first down average has been 11 a game.

West Newton is smarting from a loss to Trafford last week, (19-0) and hopes to get back on the winning trail against East.

Milwaukee Goes Wild With Joy Over Victory

MILWAUKEE (UP) — This new baseball capital of the world has gone wild with joy.

Nearly half a million wildly-cheering fans roared "Welcome Home" Thursday night when manager Fred Haney, pitching hero Lew Burdette and the other Yankee killers brought back Milwaukee's first World Series championship.

It was the city's biggest celebration since V-J Day.

Police Chief Howard Johnson estimated "conservatively" that 400,000 fans whooped it up at the airport, along the Braves' motorcade route and downtown.

The celebration began with cheering, sirens, horn-blasting, bells, snake dances and confetti the minute the Braves beat the New York Yankees 5-0 to clinch the Series.

Plane Brings Players

It swelled to a tremendous climax when the Braves' plane landed from New York. About 100,000 to 200,000 fans downtown blew horns, screamed, chanted, danced, shot off fireworks, drank beer in the streets and threw bushels of paper and confetti.

Crowds were so great that more than 50 motorcycle escorts couldn't get the motorcade through for a planned parade on Wisconsin Ave. and had to take a short-cut to County Stadium for the players to get their belongings.

When the Braves plane landed at Mitchell Field about 7:30 p.m. c.s.t. the roar of 12,000 persons on the observation deck was almost deafening.

Haney and his wife were first off the plane, followed by Burdette who won three games in the Series.

THIS RUN WON THE SERIES — Sent home on Eddie Mathews' double in the top of the third inning in the "sudden-death" seventh game of the World Series in New York's Yankee Stadium, Bob Hazle scores the first of five runs for the Milwaukee Braves. No. 44 is Hank Aaron of the Braves, and the catcher is Yogi Berra, great Yankee catcher.

James Hoffman New Bellmar Cage Aide

Bellmar High School today had a new assistant basketball coach to aid the Hurricanes' new head mentor Tom Healey, this coming cage season.

James Hoffman, a former Bellmar and California State Teachers College cager, was hired to fill the post which was left vacant last season after Nat Davis resigned prior to the 1956 season opener to accept a teaching post at Monongahela High School.

Healey, of Wellsville, O., was elected a few months ago to fill the coaching position formerly held by Jack Flora, who was relieved of his duties by the board.

Bellmar Graduate

Hoffman graduated from Bellmar in 1953 and with the Class of 1957 at California Teachers. He is currently teaching at Marion Junior High School, in his initial year as an instructor. He will retain his teaching post at Marion. No salary terms were revealed for the coaching position.

It was also announced at last night's board meeting that the Bellmar cagers would move to the Marion Junior High court once construction work on the high school gym, which will start outside Monday, moves inside.

A new gymnasium and cafeteria will be constructed at the present sight of the Bellmar gym and on the adjacent property. It is expected to be completed sometime in 1958.

Officials at Bellmar feel that the first half of the cage schedule this year can be played at the present high school court before a move is necessary.

Szabo, Rock Take BF Loop Honors

Top honors in the Blast Furnace League last night went to S. Szabo and J. Rock, Rock rolling a 213 and Szabo a 524 in the best single and three-game efforts.

Other top scorers were W. Ciepiv, H. Mazur, J. Ferguson and D. Henessey.

Electrical, Cast House and Pig Machine posted victories over Mechanical, Blow Room and Steam Plant.

Standings — Cast House 14-4, Steam Plant 12-6, Electrical 10-8, Pig Machine 8-10, Mechanical 5-13, Blow Room 5-13.

Flu Haunts Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame continued to be hampered by the flu bug today in their preparations for Saturday's battle with Army. Four first-string members of the Irish squad — Gary Myers, Jim Schaaf, Dick Lynch and Dave Hurd — went through only light drills Thursday due to the malady.

Wilkinsburg in 33-12 Defeat of Trinity Eleven

By UNITED PRESS

Wilkinsburg trounced Trinity of Washington 33-12, before 4,400 fans Thursday night to record its third consecutive victory against no defeats in the WPIAL Class AA football race.

Leroy Loudermilk completed a 48-yard touchdown pass to Dan Donahue on the first play from scrimmage to give the home team an early lead. Donahue scored again minutes later from the three and Wilkinsburg went on to amass a 20-point lead at halftime.

In a featured game tonight, Ambridge will attempt to extend its 13-game AA winning streak against the undefeated and untied Charleroi Cougars. Host Charleroi was idle last week when a game with Brownsville was postponed because of the current wave of flu.

The contest was the only league game scheduled in the Mon Valley tonight.

WPIAL secretary Dwight Connor announced Thursday night that games not played because of the flu epidemic could be cancelled or postponed, with the teams involved making the decision.

Connor said the WPIAL football committee had reached that rule concerning postponements in order to prevent the championship playoffs from being pushed back too late in the season.

Calderone, Frantz High in BM League

Ray Calderone rolled a 535 three-game series and Bud Frantz had a 262 single game mark to pace the Blooming Mill Millwrights League bowling last night.

Victories in the matches were Bethems over Gieselharts, Aiellos over Brennimans and McVickers over Furios.

Others among the leading scorers were Ray Echart, Steve Swansick, Clarence Echart, Herb Frew and Walter Labeka.

Standings — McVickers 13-8, Geiselhart's 12-9, Brenniman's 11-10, Furios 10-11, Bethems 9-12 and Aiellos 8-13.

Valley Grid Eyes on Charleroi-Ambridge; No Changes at MHS

Rostraver - Perry Off; Bellmar Cancels

Another postponement and cancellation was on the district grid card today.

It was announced this morning that the Rostraver-Perryopolis Junior High game, set for this afternoon after being postponed from Wednesday, has been postponed again until Monday.

At the same time it was announced at a school board meeting last night that the Bellmar-Elizabeth-Forward game, postponed from last night due to the Warriors having been bitten by the flu bug, has been cancelled. Elizabeth-Forward will be in class AA next year and will not compete with A teams thus cancelling the contract with Bellmar.

Kroskie High In MV League

Despite a loss to Charleroi, the Monessen entry in the Mon Valley Ladies League remained in a second place tie following this week's action.

Tonight the Villa Nova girls will bowl against the league-leading Axelrads of Uniontown at 9:15 o'clock.

Other winners this week were Uniontown over Connellsville, Charleroi's second entry in the league, over Belle Vernon, Bentleyville over Scottdale, and Fredericktown over Donora.

Top scorers were Jane Selong of Uniontown with a 503, Pat Barber of Connellsville, Dena Zarardelli of Belle Vernon, Doris Fisher of Charleroi Grand, Babe Kroskie of Monessen, Helen Koch of Charleroi; New Moon, Peg Kampo and Dot Fazzoni of Bentleyville, Nan Beck of Scottdale, Mary K. Manzell of Fredericktown and Peg Zomber of Donora. Babe Kroskie has the top single game a 190.

Cougar - Bridger Clash Practically Only Game Carded in District; 'Hounds Idle

There was nothing new to report from the athletic office at Monessen High School this morning so apparently the Greyhounds will be idle until next Friday night.

When they swing back into action Friday Redstone should be the foe, according to the schedule but the flu has hit the Republic school and the Blackhawks may not be able to play. If that is the case, Hempfield will fill the date. The Monessen-Hempfield game was postponed from last Friday night.

MHS Athletic Director Everett Pancook said this morning, "We tried to get a team to fill this week's date even a team not on our original schedule, but to no avail as everyone seems to have that (doggone) flu."

Monessen's second week of idleness coupled with other games in the valley being postponed or cancelled will turn all valley sports eyes to Charleroi where Charleroi High School, only unbeaten eleven in the Monongahela Valley (Big Five) Conference talks on unbeaten Ambridge tonight in the top game on the valley grid card.

Only Game Carded

Ironically, due to the current flu scare, the Cougar-Bridger tilt is not only the top game but practically the only game on the district schedule tonight. Thus, a crowd of close to 8,000 is expected to try to jam its way into the Cougar Stadium.

Ambridge sports a 4-0 record having vanquished Erie Strong Vincent 28-6, New Castle 14-0, Allegheny 39-13, and Beaver Falls, 24-6. Coach Mike Sebastian, former Pitt great, has seven holdovers back from a 1956 eleven which posted a 9-0-0 record.

Charleroi, under former Greyhound standout Rab Currie, has a season mark of 3-0-0, with Oliver, Allegheny and Donora having felt the effects of a Cougar clawing. A game with Brownsville last week was postponed.

Like all other teams in the valley, the Charleroi squad has been hit by the flu but not by such a large percentage as some of those teams which were forced to cancel or postpone games.

Following is the list of postponements or cancellations of this afternoon's and tonight's games:

Friday Afternoon

Montour Jt. at Bentleyville, cancld.

Friday Night

Monongahela at West View, cancld.
Brownsville at Monessen, ppd.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Downswing Action

Too many average golfers talk about "cocking" or "uncocking" the wrists without knowing much about it.

The clubhead is kept up over the right shoulder where it should be if the hands and wrists begin the downswing, the clubhead travels out in a wide arc. This outside-in swing brings on a slice and, brother, that "ain't good."

Your downswing shouldn't start with arm or wrist action. It should start with a rotation of your hips and shoulders.

Today's drawing illustrates this. The hips and shoulders have pivoted, and the left arm is guiding the swing. But the hands and wrists have not yet begun to pour their power into the shot. They won't for a fraction of a second yet — until the hands reach a spot about level with the hips.

Make sure your downswing isn't dominated by your hands and wrists. Remember, you must swing your club with your entire body.

Derby to Start At Halfback for Steelers Sunday

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Steelers' rookie Dean Derby was slated today to start at right-halfback for Pittsburgh in Sunday's game with the Chicago Cardinals.

Derby replaced ailing Dick Young, whose knee was injured last Saturday night in the Steeler-Cleveland Browns game. Young still limps and will be available only for possible spot duty.

Derby, who played for the University of Washington, took over for Young in the Cleveland game, gained 26 yards in eight carries and received four passes for 79 yards.

The Cards have scheduled a final practice session at Comiskey Park Saturday morning, and then the team will fly to Pittsburgh for the game at Forbes Field.

Quarterback Lamar McHan was expected to engineer a potent offense against Pittsburgh, with such backs as Ollie Matson, Dave Mann, Joe Childress and John Olszewski to call on for ball running chores.

Milwaukee Dream a Reality

Sad Year For New York Fans

By LEO H. PETERSEN

NEW YORK (UP)—New York City mourned the blackest year in its sports history today while the rest of the nation hailed it as a year in which the National League went West and took the New York Yankees' scalps with it.

"A great thing for baseball," said Commissioner Ford Frick after the Milwaukee Braves' dream came true with Thursday's 5-0 Series clincher and National League President Warren Giles echoed the thought with his comment, "A tremendous thing for the league and baseball as a whole."

But to New York, the Yankees' defeat was the final blow — the third strike—in a year when the Giants elected to go to San Francisco and the Dodgers quit Brooklyn for Los Angeles. The "Big City" was confident the Yankees could preserve a measure of its pride but even that was stripped away Thursday in the face of Lew Burdette's amazing mastery over the club that dealt him off as an expendable farmhand in 1951.

End Of An Era?

The Braves' World Series victory means that baseball's story has gone West. The two franchise shifts started the trend and the Yankees' defeat was the clincher as the eastern monopoly on World Series triumphs finally was broken.

Burdette, of course, emerged as one of the greatest heroes in World Series history. No pitcher since Stan Coveleski in 1920 had started and won three games in the same Series and the 30-year-old Burdette's 2-runs-in-27 innings, capped by 24 1-3 consecutive scoreless frames, rivaled anything in Series competition since Christy Mathewson pitched three shutouts against the Philadelphia Athletics in 1905.

The players who never are supposed to tighten up committed three official errors and three others of omission in the decisive seventh game.

Eddie Mathews won the fourth game with his 2-run, 10th-inning homer and it was Mathews who struck the 2-run double Thursday that put the Braves on the glory road to stay. It kayoed Don (Perfect Game) Larsen and gave manager Fred Haney the lead.

Mathews' double caused Yankee manager Casey Stengel to remove Larsen and hits by Hank Aaron and Wes Covington plus an infield out enabled the Braves to lead by 4-0 in the third inning. Burdette protected it the rest of the way with Del Crandall's eighth-inning homer simply putting Stengel deeper into a strategical hole than he already was.

It was an irony of the Yankee defeat that Casey's second-guess of himself contributed to the key play that opened the way for the Braves' winning rally.

BRAVES' MR. WONDERFUL — Milwaukee catcher Del Crandall hands Lew Burdette, the Braves' Mr Wohderful of the '57 World Series, the ball after the last out of the seventh game of the series which gave the Milwaukeeans the world title as third baseman Ed Mathews, who made the final putout, and shot the ball to Crandall, pats Burdette on the back just before he was mobbed by teammates and fans.

Four-run Cushion Made My Job Easy—Burdette

By LEW BURDETTE
As Told to the United Press

NEW YORK (UP) — I've received a number of good things in my lifetime but the best gift ever was that four-run cushion the boys gave me in the third inning.

That made my job easy.

Ask any pitcher what he wants most and he'll tell you it's a three or four-run lead in the early innings. That gives you quite a bit of margin for error.

After those four runs, I never really worried. All I tried to do was get the ball over the plate and let them hit it. And as long as I had my control, I figured I'd have no trouble.

Truthfully, the Yankees didn't bother me when they started getting on me from the dugout in the late innings. They had pulled that in the first game I pitched so I was more or less used to it.

Pitching with only two days rest didn't particularly disturb me at the start and I'm certainly not going to complain about it now. There was no strain on my arm at all. Sure, I felt a little tired at the end, but I'm only human. I'm no machine.

One of the first things I thought about after that last out had been made was that the Yankees had made seven hits. That meant I had pitched three seven-hitters in this series. Maybe seven is my lucky number.

I might still be out there pitching, though, if not for Eddie Mathews.

He's the guy that got us off flying with his two-run double in the third inning, but I'm talking about that honey of a play he made on Bill Skowron to wind up this thing.

When Eddie came up with Skowron's smash and touched third, I said to myself, that's all there is there ain't no more.

One more thing about the Yankees getting on me from their dugout. I think it was Joe Collins who yelled something about me throwing a spitter. I'm pretty sure I know why he did it. He was probably trying to rattle me.

He didn't bother me, though. You know the old saying: Sticks and stones and so on.

Anyway, I ain't mad at nobody now.

Thorpe Hanover Favored in Arden Harness Races

WASHINGTON, Pa. (UP) — Thorpe Hanover, owned by Hugh Grant of Bradford, Pa., was the early pre-race favorite today for the first running of the $39,000 Arden Downs Colt Stakes here Saturday.

The two-year-old colt pacer, racing for the Del Miller stable, posted a record two-minutes and three-fifth seconds in a mile run at Du Quoin, Ill., this past summer. Del Miller, sponsor of the races at Washington County Fairgrounds will handle Thorpe Hanover.

Other two-year-old pacers entered were Checkout, Admiral Byrd, Adios H. and Flying Time.

The two-year-old filly race will put season champion Traffic Lady against High Time for the first time since their meeting at Lexington, Ky. Traffic Lady is trained and driven by Johnny Simpson, leading Grand Circuit driver.

High Time, fleet-footed daughter of Good Time from the Castleton Farm stable, is trained and driven by Frank Ervin.

Post time at the one-day event will be 1:30 p.m.

Logart - Micelli On TV Tonight

DETROIT (UP) — It will be a battle of speed against power tonight when second-ranked Isaac Logart steps into the Olympia ring with Joe Miceli in a nationally-televised 10-round welterweight bout.

A 24-year-old Cuban who hails from Kid Gavilan's home town, began his pro boxing career at the ripe old age of 13. His hopes for a title shot in the near future could be shattered by one of Miceli's potent left hooks, acknowledged as one of the best in the ring.

Miceli said he plans to be the aggressor.

"Logart can't hit. He thinks he's another Gavilan but he'll never make it," the 28-year-old New Yorker said.

Halfback Injuries May Force Pitt into 'Fullback Formation'

By JOHN CARROLL

PITTSBURGH (UP)—If injuries to halfbacks keep cropping up, Pitt Coach Johnny Michelosen may be the unwitting inventor of a brand new formation—the F—(for fullback) formation.

As the Panthers prepared for Saturday's meeting in Pitt Stadium with Nebraska's flu-shaken Cornhuskers, Michelosen was caught with a shortage of right halfbacks and wasn't too deep on the left side either.

Jimmy Theodore, the No. 1 right halfback, was hobbled with a leg injury and was not counted on for heavy duty against Nebraska. Peter Prince, a reserve, from Nashua, N.H., was out for the season because of a head injury. The No. 2 man behind Theodore, Joe Scisly of Elysburg, Pa., was trying to adjust to a new set of contact lenses.

At left half, Dick Haley of Midway and John Flara of Midland still were in working condition, but if anything happened to either, Michelosen would become the shiftiest coach in the business.

Bowen Pronounced Fit

There was some talk Michelosen would shift senior fullback Dick Bowen of Duquesne, Pa., back to left half in an emergency. Bowen has not played since being injured on the final play of Pitt's loss to Oklahoma. But by mid-week he was pronounced fit and should have no trouble adapting to left half where he played as a sophomore and junior.

Bob (The Bull) Stark, 190-pounder from East McKeesport, Pa., probably will start at full and there was a chance that Fred (The Mule) Riddle, of Robinson Twp., would get the call at right half.

With Bowen, Stark and Riddle in the game at the same time, the only backfield man who would not have begun the season as a fullback would be sophomore Ivan Toncic of Midland, Pa., who will be subbing for the injured Bill Kaliden at quarterback.

Pitt's F-formation would present a devastating ground game, if performances in victories over Oregon and Southern California are any indication.

Best Punters

Against Oregon, Stark rolled for 57 yards in the first half alone. And in the Southern Cal struggle, Riddle gained 107 yards, or nearly twice as much as the entire Trojan backfield. Riddle has averaged 6.3 yards per carry and his 133 total yards are second only to Stark's 156 among Panther backs.

Bowen, Stark and Riddle also represent Pitt's best punters. Bowen is averaging 39.5 yards, Stark 38.6 and Riddle 42.5.

And if you care to kick it around some more, there's another fullback listed on the roster—Curt Plowman by name. He's a sophomore from Altoona who also can run as a halfback.

But not all the Western Pennsylvania fullbacks went to Pitt. Nebraska managed to land one from Turtle Creek. He is senior George Cifra, who will start for the Cornhuskers against the Panthers Saturday.

This will mark the 21st meeting of the two schools with Pitt holding a decided 14-victory advantage. Nebraska has won three and three other games ended in ties.

Washington Twp. PTA Board in Meeting Plans

The executive committee of the Washington Township Parent Teacher Association met on Monday evening at the home of the vice president, Mrs. Nick Pozum. Mrs. John Stump, president, was in charge.

Routine reports were given by Mrs. Robert Hartsock, secretary and Mrs. Edward Britton, treasurer.

Mrs. Pozum, program chairman, outlined plans for the October meeting of the unit to be held in Marion Junior High School auditorium on Oct 21 at 8 o'clock. The speaker will be Robert Vanbremen, supervising principal of Bellmarette Joint Schools. The social hour will be in the form of a Halloween party.

All members are asked to come masked and there will be prizes given for the funniest, prettiest, most original and ugliest attire. There will also be a door award.

Two additional committee chairmen were named: legislation, Harry S. Muckle Sr.; student loan, Mrs. Margaret Glotfelty.

The next executive meeting will be Nov. 4 at the home of Mrs. Elsa Liptrot.

Mrs. Pozum served refreshments.

In most respects, Chinese is regarded as the easiest of all languages to learn.

Dames of Malta Officers Installed at Ceremony Here

Officers were installed in ritualistic ceremonies at the Wednesday evening meeting of the Belle Vernon Sisterhood Dames of Malta held in the lodge rooms on State St. Mrs. Carl Younkin assumed her duties as queen.

Other officers installed were Mae Nobel, Ruth; Mary Hormell, Naomi; Ruth Lynn, protector; Ada Lehew, herald; Gladys Bakewell, deputy herald; Susie Brown, assistant keeper of archives; Kathryn Myers, burser; Cynthia Diass, color bearer; Marie Bowell, color bearer; Ina Crow, first messenger; Anna Clark, color guard; Vera Schmidt, color guard; Rose Kimball, pianist; Dorothy Adomaitas, captain of the first degree team; Edith Samoda, captain of the second degree team and Thelma Free, captain of the funeral staff.

Anna Irons, keeper of archives; Hilda Como, second messenger and Margaret Pascoe, 18 month trustee, will be installed at a later date.

Mrs. Doris McLaughlin of Monessen, district deputy, conducted the installation with Mrs. Dorothy Adomaitas acting as marshall.

Fall flowers and twining ivy along with the white coverings provided the background for the installation. Roselia Kimball was the soloist. Mrs. Younkin wore a pink orchid presented to her by her husband. Her cousin, Mrs. Mary Hormell, made a brief speech as she pinned the orchid on. After the ceremony Mrs. Younkin was presented with a large bouquet of pink chrysanthemums by the lodge and many gifts by the individual members.

Mrs. Ruth Lynn, retiring queen, opened the session and presented all officers and committee members, who served with her, a gift

After the installation the Protectors Club members formed a circle around Mrs. Lynn, who was then presented a protector's jewel by Mrs. Adomaitas and received into the organization.

Mrs. Younkin gave a brief talk expressing appreciation to those who assisted with the installation. She then named the following committee chairmen; ways and means, Mary Hormell, chairman and Cynthia Diass, co-chairman; social, Betty Junk and Lillian Hurst; program, Thelma Free; Malta Chat, Sadye Neil; delinquent, Cora Mills.

Luncheon was served by the social committee headed by Mrs. Sadye Neil. Fall colors were used in the appointments.

Girl Scouts Plan for Party

Gril Scout Troop 30 met last evening in the Girl Scout Little House. The flag ceremony opened the session with Judy Ceccarelli, Patty Teska and Wilma Toth as flag bearers. Carol Reese and Patty Schwartz were color guards.

Plans were made for a Halloween party, and all the girls will come in costume. Judy Ceccarelli and Judy Berg will comprise the luncheon committee; Carol Reese and Judy Grant will be in charge of table decorations; Martha Cain and Patty Schwartz, games; Patty Teska and Dian Mobley, costume prizes; Barbara and Wilma Toth, game prizes

An electric circle concluded the session. The next meeting will be Oct. 24 in the Little House.

Council Meets; Hears Reports

President Myford Michener conducted the Tuesday evening meeting of North Belle Vernon Council in the council rooms. Councilmen attending were Amerigo Franceschi, Tony Stringhill, Ross Boston, Joe Tintori and William Rowley, along with Burgess Leroy Jones.

Routine reports were given including those by Burgess Jones, Police Chief M. E. Anthony, Fire Chief Robert Whitelaw and Street Commissioner Joe Lupori.

Tintori and Franceschi were appointed to represent the group on the Public Library Board.

The street committee reported that the Fell St. paving is progressing nicely and should be completed if good weather conditions continue.

Reds Sentence Five

VIENNA (UP)—A Czech Communist court has sentenced five alleged "American spies" to prison terms ranging from seven to 15 years at Prague, Radio Prague said today. The broadcast heard here said the condemned persons were members of an "American spy ring" which was smashed by the Czech police last May.

Young Adults Hear Monessen Church Pastor

The Rev. Vernon Bowers, pastor of the First Christian Church of Monessen, was guest speaker at the Wednesday evening dinner meeting of the Young Adult Class of the First Methodist Church in the church social rooms.

In keeping with the study theme of the group, "Religions of the World," Mr. Bowers discussed "The Origin of the Christian Church." He traced the history of the church to 1793 and told of its founders.

The program followed the serving of a spaghetti dinner by Mrs. Raymond Riskey. Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Harold Phillips, Mrs. Dave Bosson and Mrs. Edgar Jones. The church pastor, the Rev. William Schatz, gave the invocation.

President Ray Helterbran conducted the business session and routine reports were given by Mrs. George Kander.

The table was arranged with fall flowers by Mrs. Harry Hackenson, and after dinner they were presented to Mr. Bowers for his wife.

Attending were Ruth Frost, class teacher, Mr. and Mrs. Schatz, Mr. Bowers, Mr. and Mrs. Helterbran, Mrs. George Semich, Mr. and Mrs. Kander, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Glasgow, Alverta Shetterly, Mr. and Mrs. John Kinsey, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Bossen, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Jones. Ann Loesel, and Mrs. Robert Williams.

Excursion Train Will Make Annual Trip Tomorrow

Joe Ferrari of Belle Vernon, president of the Pennsylvania Family Club, composed of Pennsylvania Railroad employes and their families, announced today that everything is in readiness for the second train excursion to Altoona tomorrow.

A long excursion train will leave West Brownsville at 8 a. m. travel through California and Roscoe reaching Speers at 8:45, Charleroi at 8:55 and North Charleroi at 9 a. m. It will continue enroute to Pittsburgh picking up passengers as it goes, and then the long and colorful trip will begin.

The train will make its way over the famous Horseshoe curve to Altoona and then return tomorrow night at 6 o'clock

Ferrari made arrangements for the trip which he now expects to become an annual affair. All tickets have been sold out and the majority of the travelers will be students.

Some of them made the trip last year, but others will be having their first train ride. The foliage and other fall scenery is reportedly at its best at this particular time.

Tickets were sold through the schools, and a list is in reserve awaiting any cancellations.

There will be booths arranged for the sale of confections, but the people going on the trip should supply their own picnic lunches.

A Columbus Day celebration has been arranged tonight at the Sons of Italy Christopher Columbus lodge on Broad Ave. for members and guests. It will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Work to Begin Today on Additions to School Here

Foundation work was scheduled to begin on the addition to Bellmar High School, and on the addition to Marion Junior High School on Monday. A report on these plans was given on Wednesday evening at a meeting of the Bellmarette Joint School Board held in the Bellmar High School Library.

A meeting was held at both sites yesterday with all architects and representatives concerned with the construction in attendance, and the final approval of the project was given. E. L. Shea will be the supervising inspector for the State School Building Authority and Victor Mioranza will be construction inspector for both projects.

Blandon Bulger, president, was in charge of the Wednesday evening session. Attending from the Belle Vernon Board were Joseph Hoffman, Gerald Stanley, Lewis Gilliland and J. E. Kuhn. All members attended from North Belle Vernon. Richard Hamer, Bulger and Leo Valdiserri attended from Washington Township and George Hancock, John Shook, Charles Lakel and Ben Sarra from Fayette City

Solicitor John Costello, Supervising Principal Robert VanBremen and Elementary Supervisor Joseph Brisbane also attended.

Routine reports were given. It was decided that the special building committee will meet in the near future to list the furniture and equipment needed.

Carmine Natalini reporting for the supplies committee announced that VanBremen recommended the purchase of a calculator, a 10 bank type, at an approximate cost of $850. It will be used in the commercial department and school business offices.

Leo Valdiserri reported for the building and grounds committee. Gerald Stanley for transportation and Dr. Harold Underwood, athlete committee.

J. E. Kuhn reporting for the personnel committee announced that the resignation of James W. Miller as a science and math teacher at Marion Junior High has been received. This will be accepted after the 60 day notice period or as soon as a replacement can be found.

VanBremen had an extensive report. He outlined enrollment in all schools, and presented a summary of the opening of school from each building principal. He listed co-curricular assignments of the faculty at the High School and activity period assignments. A schedule of assembly programs was submitted as was a complete activity program

It was decided that the High School Band take part in the Education Week program Nov. 10 to 17.

Kuhn was instructed to notify the Department of Health that Dr. Underwood was retained as school dentist and Dr. Vincent Bolton as school doctor.

A list of students attending Monessen and Charleroi Schools was submitted. It was also reported that two local elementary students are attending special education classes in other districts.

20 Per Cent Absent

VanBremen stated that the recent influenza epidemic had caused about 20 per cent of the students to be absent from school, and he thought it was advisable for school to remain open.

VanBremen was instructed to contact Architect C. C. Compton concerning quotations for a new hot water tank in the High School, since the present one needs replaced.

Special education classes will be suspended one week since the instructor, Mrs. Georgette Wiles, will attend California State Teachers College to obtain additional credits.

The board will subsidize the school newspaper at a cost not to exceed $235.

The Future Homemakers of America were given permission to attend a meeting at Somerset on a Saturday in the near future at their own expense.

Costello informed the board that teacher application blanks must be revised to meet Fair Employment Practice Commission requirements

Breakwell submitted the financial statement, and all necessary bills were ordered paid.

After adjournment the FHA provided refreshments.

Reds in Antarctic

LONDON (UP)—Twenty-seven Russians are headed into the snow-covered Antarctic wastes on a 1,000-mile expedition to set up a scientific base near the South Magnetic Pole, Moscow Radio said today.

Fire Drills Held at Belle Vernon Schools

Kenneth Beazell, chief of Belle Vernon Fire Co. No 2, announced today that the department observed Fire Prevention Week by conducting a fire drill yesterday morning in the Belle Vernon Schools.

Students in the Belle Vernon Grade School evacuated the building in only 47 seconds, and from Vernon Junior High in one minute, eight seconds.

The drill was orderly, and the students well trained.

Beazell was assisted by Frank Sellaro, Ed Lambert and Clawrence Albright, firemen; Miss Laura Free, principal, and all faculty members.

Doesn't Like Satellite Humor

WASHINGTON (UP)—Amateur comedians are suggesting that Project Vanguard, the U.S program to launch earth satellites, be renamed Operation Also Ran, Project Catch-Up, and the like.

If these attempts at humor faze Dr. John P Hagen, he doesn't show it. Hagen, 49-year-old native of Amherst, Nova Scotia, is Vanguard's director. He didn't like it any better than anybody else when the Russians put up a satellite first.

But, his associates say, he isn't wasting time or energy in moaning and hand-wringing. He is going ahead with his job, calmly. If the Soviet achievemet has affected him, it has been to make him more determined than ever to get a U.S. moon into the sky. His program:

To carry out as planned the testing program preliminary to the first American "earnest try" to launch a satellite. Thus attempt is scheduled for next March at the Air Force missile test center, Cape Canaveral, Fla.

It is just possible that the United States will get a tiny test sphere into an orbit around the earth in a "shoot" scheduled for December. But nobody pretends that will be an accomplishment comparable to the Soviet or to later U.S. firings.

After some setbacks, Vanguard this year finally came up with what looks like a successful first stage of the three-stage rocket which will push the satellites into the sky. It has undergone much ground testing and two flight tests. A third test, with second and third stages "dummied in," is imminent at Cape Canaveral.

The overall launcher is a bullet-shaped vehicle 72 feet long and weighing 22,600 pounds. The bottom, or first, stage is 45 inches in diameter, the rest 32 inches.

Vanguard's "brains," the intricate guiding and timing gear which will control all phases of the launching flight, are packed into the second stage. The satellite, protected by a nose cone, rides in the end of the third stage.

The true satellite will be a sphere 20 inches in a diamater weighing, with its instruments, 21.5 pounds. It will carry four 30-inch antennas.

Can you ever afford to retire?

The time for your retirement may seem a long way off — but it's not too early to think about what you'll use for money when you do retire. Even social security plus a pension — if you get one — may not be enough to let you live in retirement the way you want to.

It's up to you to put money aside now during your earning years to supplement other retirement funds.

One of the best ways to do this is to open a savings account here and add to it every week or month.

You get insured safety and generous dividends make your savings grow faster. And you enjoy peace of mind, knowing that this account assures your comfort in retirement no matter what may happen.

Open your retirement savings account here this week.

Opposes Names on Signs

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader said today he is thinking seriously of removing the names of state officials from highway construcuon signs.

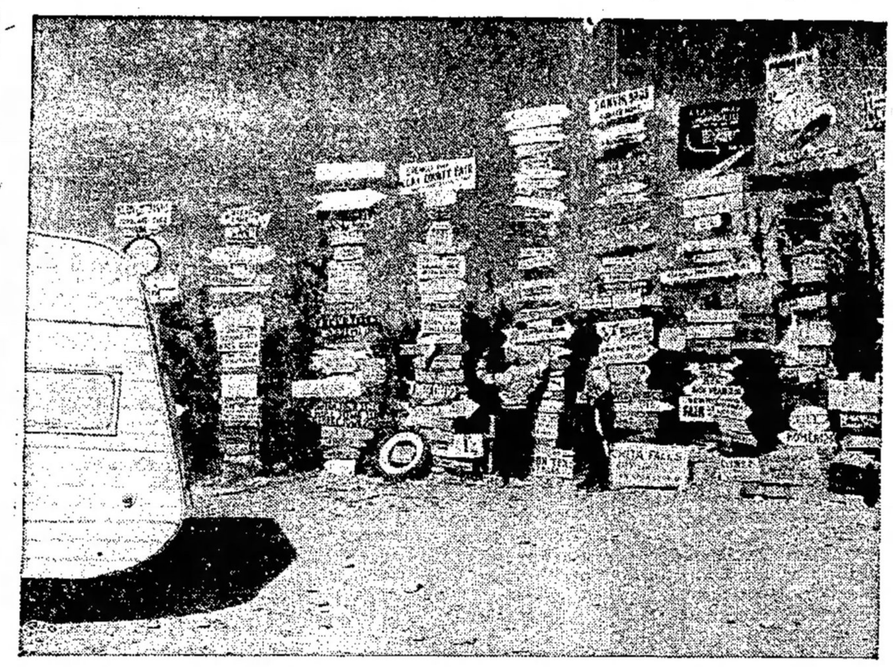
The signs, placed wherever a state road is being constructed or repaired, usually bear the names of the governor and the state highways secretary.

"I think the signs have to be put up, but I've always been somewhat less than lukewarm about putting public officials' names on them," Leader said at his news conference.

The signs must now be repainted, since the new secretary, Lewis Stevens replaced Joseph J. Lawler.

At the same time, the governor said he believes the Automotive Safety Foundation will agree to make a survey of the Highways Department and its road-building program.

"I have complete confidence that they will go ahead and do it," Leader said.



300 HOME TOWNS ON THE ALASKA HIGHWAY — A trailer traveler adds his sign to the nearly 300 home town "guidepost" signs at Watson Lake Junction, a Yukon territory stopover on the Alaska highway. Watching the operation is a Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman.

Wants French Constitution Changed

PARIS (UP)—Jacques Soustelle, wartime aide to General Charles de Gaulle, said today he doubts the National Assembly will call in de Gaulle to help solve the current French government crisis—the gravest since the war.

Soustelle, a former French governor - general of Algeria who took the lead in defeating the "framework law" for limited Algerian home rule and thus helped plunge France into its latest crisis, said that nevertheless de Gaulle should have a part in any French constitutional reform.

"I do believe that General de Gaulle should be instrumental to bring about a change in constitutional law because he has been advocating such a trend for the past 12 years," said Soustelle, 45, in an exclusive televised interview with United Press Movietone News.

He was asked if the French National Assembly, many of whose present leaders opposed de Gaulle when he quit the premiership 11 years ago, would accord him a role in constitutional reform.

"I don't know," Soustelle said. "But just for the moment I'm afraid not."

Soustelle said he, as does de Gaulle, favors changing the French constitution in order to stop the overthrow of governments on an average of once every six months.

"There is a provision in the constitution that when a bill is repulsed the government falls," Soustelle said. "What I propose is to establish such a system as obtains in Switzerland or the United States.

"The legislative system should not necessarily agree with the executive branch. They should function separately. In the United States, when a bill is repulsed, the president does not go."

Soustelle said he also favors a federal system for the French Union which at present is centralized with all control in Paris.

"I have advocated a federal system for the past 10 years," he said. "Separate territories, such as those in Africa, would have their own governments."

Soustelle denied that he led the fight against the framework law because it was "too liberal" or that he wanted to overthrow the government of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury.

"The proposed law, we believe, would have made for the oppression of the Christian and Jewish elements in Algeria," he said.

"One of the amendments was for an upper house for the Algerian legislature, based not on numerical population, but on communities, just as Delaware has as many senators as New York state."

Tips from Girls Nab Suspect

HARRISBURG (UP)—Information supplied by two young girls was credited today with leading to the arrest of a guard at the Pennsylvania Industrial School for the $7,524 holdup of the First National Bank of Marysville.

The suspect, Norman S. Batcheler, 51, Shiremanstown RD 1, father of three children, was seized late Thursday at the school in nearby White Hill following a joint investigation by state police, the FBI and local police.

Police said Batcheler was arrested on a federal warrant when he reported for duty at the school after a two-week vacation and a statement admitting his guilt and saying he was "ashamed." Most of the money taken from the bank Wednesday was reported found at his trailer camp home.

Batcheler was held in Dauphin County Prison in default of $20,000 bail for action by the U. S. District Court after arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Charles J. Ware.

Although a telephoned tip led to Batcheler's arrest, authorities said an accurate description of the get-away automobile supplied by two 10-year-old girls played the major role in the arrest.

Sally Barrick and Margery S. Snyder, fifth grade pupils at Marysville, noted a canary yellow and white automobile parked near the bank on several occasions, beginning Monday. After the holdup Wednesday afternoon, Margery approached officer David S. Brady of the Marysville police, who was questioning residents near the school and bank and asked: "Oh, do you mean the man in the yellow car?"

The description of the man given by the girls gibed with that given by three bank employes who were threatened by the bandit with death if they did not give him time to escape before turning in an alarm.

Free Party Planned

NEW YORK (UP) — Producer Mike Todd says he will invite 1,000 movie fans to his mammoth "Around The World" party in Madison Square Garden. Todd said one couple will be picked in local drawings in each of the 87 American and Canadian theaters where "Around The World In 80 Days" is playing. They will be given all-expense trips to New York for the Oct. 17 party. The rest of the 1,000 will be chosen in a drawing in New York.

Canonsburg Man Pleads Guilty

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Thomas E. Emery, 34, Canonsburg, pleaded guilty Wednesday i. Federal Court to charges of misapplication of more than $30,000 in bank funds.

His attorney, Adolph Zema, told Judge John W. McIlvaine that Emery entered the guilty plea "against my better judgment."

The judge ruled, however, he was satisfied Emery knew what he was doing.

Emery had been scheduled to go on trial Monday. He was indicted last year for misapplying funds of the Canonsburg branch of the Mellon National Bank and Trust Company in late 1955 and early 1956.

Steel Capacity to Be Increased in Nation

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — A steel executive predicted Thursday that the nation's steel-making capacity will be increased by 10 per cent in the next two years.

The prediction was made in a speech before the Chamber of Commerce of Greater Philadelphia by William Butler, assistant to the director of market and commercial development of Lukens Steel Co.

Butler estimated that by 1959 the industry will have raised its annual capacity from the present 133,500,000 tons to more than 146,000,000 tons.

He said that if the steel industry had not expanded by nearly 20 per cent in the past seven years, it would have had to operate at "the impossible rate" of 130 per cent of current capacity.

Big markets for steel will be opening up soon in the nuclear energy field, he said, whether it is to be for fission or fusion. He said it would also be needed for processing sea water, a possible source for heavy hydrogen.

John A. Perkins, undersecretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, told the industrial conference that the federal government must lend assistance if states are unable to solve financial and other problems relating to education.

Perkins predicted that a permanent system of grants in aid from the federal government is almost certain to develop and eventually succeed.

Five Course Dinner

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (UP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will eat a "simple five-course" fried chicken and Virginia ham dinner on their first night in the United States. The royal couple are scheduled to stay at the Williamsburg Inn Oct. 16, their first day in the United States. The menu released by officials shows their first dinner will start with turtle soup and range through the ham and chicken to a dessert of strawberries, with three wines during the meal and liqueurs.

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —Some 4,000 employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad will be laid off beginning early next week, it was announced Wednesday.

Wrong Usage for Soviet Satellite

WASHINGTON (UP)—Stop saying "outer space" in connection with such near neighbors as Sputnik.

"In proper usage," the National Geographic Society says, "outer space means the incredibly distant reaches among the stars and galaxies."

The Geographic said space is divided into three regions:

Interplanetary, "the local space in our solar system;" interstellar, the space among the stars; and intergalactic, "the countless trillions of miles among g a l a x i e s such as the earth's own milky way."

The Russians say they put Sputnik in orbit 560 miles up. Earth's nearest star neighbor is nearly 27 trillion miles away.

Some people think "stratosphere" means "out yonder." It doesn't. It's a layer of the earth's atmosphere and its c e i l i n g is around 20 miles.

Family Groups Take Over Ads

By FRED DANZIG

NEW YORK (UP) —Advertisements, like suburbs, streets and schools, are getting crowded.

The beautiful woman is still there, of course. Only she's not alone. She's a mother now and she's accompanied by her husband and the kids.

In short, Madison Avenue has discovered the American family.

Family in Action

Ads in newspapers, magazines, and on television, now tend to portray family groups in action, be it getting the family car filled with gasoline at the neighborhood station, sipping soda from family-size bottles during a family backyard barbecue, eating cereal from family-size packages, taking pictures, talking on the telephone, or looking at stock quotations.

More cigarette ads feature the "young marrieds." So do beer ads. A fishing tackle firm hopes to encourage more family fishing trips by turning out pastel colored rods and reels for the girls.

So widespread has the family appeal become that a liquor campaign recently broke the ground rules by showing a female in an ad. Even though she wasn't drinking the rum or touching a glass, her mere presence caused an uproar and the ad was canceled.

Advertising men boil down the reasons for the family approach as follows: prosperity and leisure time.

Women do about three-fourths of the family spending, so broad appeals aimed at women and the thing uppermost in their minds, family, are profitable. The five-day week, the move to suburban living, informality, and television all tend to make the home more of a focal point for advertising appeals.

Prosperity Creates Markets

Prosperity, besides altering older advertising approaches, also has created new markets for such things as small boats, swimming pools, station wagons and picnic items.

The trend is more than a passing phenomenon, for the number of families living in the United States is increasing. Last year, there were nearly 43-million. By 1975, this figure will pass 54-million.

The reaching-out for family business also involves transportation. Important railroads, airlines and bus companies have introduced family rates in recent years, along with major hotels.

In religion, churches are urging families not to split up at summertime by sending the children off to camp. Take summer camp vacations together, they suggest. Sunday schools are inaugurating family courses.

Industry is in the picture too, with a recently - launched "Fun with Pop" program, aimed at building a happier family life by getting fathers to spend more time with their children.

Asks Halt to Tobacco Claims

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Federal Trade Commission examiner recommended today that the FTC call a halt to Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. claims that Chesterfields have no bad effect on smokers.

But examiner William L. Pack did not suggest that the company drop its claims that Chesterfields are "milder" and more "soothing and relaxing."

In his ruling Pack said cigarette smoking is bound to have "some adverse effect" on the smoker's nose, throat and other organs.

Nasser's Aides Want Communist Crackdown

By JOE MORRIS

CAIRO (UP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser's top aides are urging him to get tough with Egyptian Communists, diplomatic sources said today.

They said Interior Minister Zacchariah Mohieddin and other officials are getting anxious about renewed rumblings among Egypt's outlawed Communists, particularly in trade unions.

These officials are said to be pressing Nasser to take stronger measures than are involved in the trial opening Saturday for 18 persons identified as minor league Communists.

Reds Rumored Splitting

Reports circulating in Cairo say Egypt's clandestine Reds, who previously were splintered into many groups, now have consolidated into two factions—one espousing Soviet-style Communism and the other embracing the Yugoslav style.

The number of party members in Egypt is not known.

The latest issue of the Communist underground newspaper Al Intisar (Victory) indicated the Reds would try to use the trial to stir up sympathy and supporters for their cause.

It said the trial was "only a means of dissipating the national struggle and attempting to preoccupy nationalists with a struggle among themselves instead of facing imperialism."

It said anti-Communists acts by the government only created splits between the government and the people.

Newspaper Urges Defense

The Communist organ urged the trial defendants to "make the court the pulpit for their defense of Communism and the position of national Communists."

It also pressed for a campaign to eliminate "reactionary laws."

"In brief, we should divert what is aimed at serving a blow against Communism into a gain for the Communist case," Al Intisar said.

The newspaper was careful not to attack Nasser or leading government personalities directly, but it did blast Mohammed Nassich, editor of the independent newspaper Al Ahram and a close friend of the president.

Legion Asking Apology from Democratic Boss

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Legionnaires today demanded an "immediate public apology" for an alleged remark that a legless state employe had been "standing behind those legs long enough."

The demand was aimed at Samuel G. Neff, Democratic boss in the Beaver Falls area and manager of the state Workmen's Insurance Fund.

Robert Buttermore, legless veteran, had been quoted in published news stories that Neff had threatened to fire him and had told him:

"You've been standing behind those legs long enough.'

Buttermore, who lost both legs in World War II, quit his job as a state Highways Department foreman on Sept. 26.

The Schenley American Legion Post 663, which has some 700 members, unanimously passed a resolution demanding an apology. A copy was sent to Gov. George M. Leader.

Collectors Eager

FREMONT, Ohio (UP)—Fremont's trash collectors make a clean sweep of things, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Binkley discovered. A basket of groceries, clothing and a purse the Binkleys left out near their car for a moment were thrown on the trash truck when they returned. All was recovered except the groceries, and the city agreed to pay for them.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, George Valo, Sr., who died 11 years ago, October 10, 1946.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep
His memory we shall always keep
Always so good, unselfish and kind
None on this earth your equal we'll find.
Sadly missed by Wife and Children.

In loving memory of our dear husband and son, Fred J. Vincent, who died six years ago today, October 11, 1951.
We live today with memories
Of days when you were here.
We miss you still and always will
Throughout each day and year.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes our eyes
Our thoughts are in that lonely grave
Where our dear loved one lies.
Sadly missed by wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Vincent and father, Nicholas Vincent.

In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs Mary Molle, who died two years ago, October 11, 1955.
When life threatens to make me blue,
I cling to a memory to carry me through,
Feeling that somewhere you are standing by
Ready to help when you hear me cry.
And so dear mother your life of love
Is a precious treasure from Heaven above.
Your grave I tend with loving care
For part of my heart is buried there
Sadly missed by daughter, Norma Jean Ehrhart.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs Mary Molle, who died two years ago today, October 11, 1955
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief; a shock severe
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you
And speak of how you died;
To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
Oh, God, grant you eternal rest.
Sadly missed by son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Emile Molle and Daughters.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Molle, who died two years ago today, October 11, 1955.
Two lonely years have passed away
Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day
We still remember well.
Your end was sudden, Mom,
It made us weep and cry,
But, oh, the saddest part of all
You never said goodbye.
God gave us strength and courage
To carry the blow, what it means to miss you
God will only know.
You have taken your long, last journey
In the beautiful, snip called Rest
Away from this world of sorrow
To the home of Eternal Rest
Sadly missed by daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ehrhart and Son.

In loving memory of Mrs Mary Molle who died two years ago today, October 11, 1955
When morning dawns, there is no trace
Of tears shed through the night;
Of aching hearts that know the pain
That fades in the morning's light.
Each day seems like a year to us,
Who miss your smile so dear
The joy and laughter that you brought
Whenever you were here.
We pray one day we'll meet again
When our work on earth is done
Sadly missed by brother and sister-in-law Mr. & Mrs. Edward Nichols.

In loving memory of our dear sister, Mrs. Mary Molle, who died two years ago today, October 11, 1955.
Little did we know that morning,
The sorrow the day would bring.
The end was sudden, the shock severe;
To part with you, the one we loved so dear.
We did not know the pain you had,
nor hear your final sigh.
We only know that you had left us without a last goodbye.
In life we loved you dearly,
In death we do the same.
Many a lonely heartache after a lonely tear,
You have passed beyond our love and care,
But not beyond our thoughts and prayer.
When days are dark and friends are few,
Sister dear, how we long for you.
Sadly missed by Mary Ellen and Harry Gush, Sarah and George Moyer.

Fortunate Welcome

CHICAGO (UP)—The luck of the Irish arrived shortly after Michael Fitzsimmons left home. The young immigrant won a 1957 auto on a 25-cent chance and commented "nothing like this ever happened to me in Ireland."

French Have A Whisky Problem

PARIS, (UP)—Frenchmen have a lot of political and economic problems, but most of them consider having to live without whisky among the most annoying.

American detective stories and a general snobbish trend made whisky, one of the rare alcoholic beverages not produced in this country, the fashion after World War II.

One could not give a cocktail party, a reception or a dinner without whisky. Hosts were severely judged by their guests if they produced 50 different drinks but failed to serve whisky.

But the good days were ended when young French Finance Minister Felix Gaillard added whisky to the list of what he calls "non-essential" imports that France must do without.

Some people reported the downfall of the government 10 days ago was partly because of the whisky problem, since National Assembly deputies allegedly could not do without it.

The first thing guests do now at any French party is to go to the bar and look for a bottle of whisky.

If by chance there is one, the contents have evaporated before the host even knows it has been found.

Of course, some people are happy about this. Cognac producers immediately announced that their new brand called "dry pale," to be drunk with water—"fine a l'eau,"—as the French call it, was much better for the health than Whisky.

Cognac growers report their sales already have increased by some 12 per cent in France in the last four months and predict it will be still bigger next year.

The only trouble is that the quantity of cognac available is limited and the Ministry of Finance is asking producers to export Cognac to bring in needed foreign currencies.

But the suppression of whisky has been really a catastrophe for the numerous "whisky clubs" that have spread all over the country and are especially popular in Paris.

One of these clubs, the "Scottish Club" where everything is in the true tradition of old Scotland, is finishing the few bottles it has managed to hide for the old timers.

Those who are not well-known are given anything from Cognac to Coca-cola and mineral water.

First Details Of New Missile

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (UP)—The Air Force today disclosed the first details of the nation's fastest target missile, now being developed by the missiles divisions system of Lockheed to test the United States' newest supersonic weapons.

The Air Force described the Lockheed Q5 as a sleek ramjet vehicle that flashes through the stratosphere at more than twice the speed of sound.

The target missile is nearly 39 feet long and has a wingspan of 10 feet. It weighs more than 7,600 pounds and is 20 inches in diameter.

The speed of the missile makes it possible for the first time to test realistically the accuracy and destructive power of the nation's missile arsenal.

Jordan Honors Yanks

AMMAN, Jordan (UP)—American servicemen wishing to visit Jordan will be permitted to enter the country on their military identity cards without passports, tourist department sources said today. American servicemen are the first foreign troops accorded this facility, the sources said.

Airlines Take Steps For Health

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Anyone who travels very much knows the convenience and comfort of flying. But there are innumerable outstanding services that the nation's airlines perform which aren't readily apparent even to the veteran traveler.

Probably most important are the measures taken to protect the health of passengers.

Food, of course, is somewhat of a problem. Today domestic airlines spend more money to feed their passengers than they spent to fly them not too many years back.

Not only do the airlines have to protect the food for the passengers. It is even more important that they keep contaminated food from reaching the pilot.

In today's modern airliners, the food is perfectly safe. The bob lunches, for example, are specially selected because of their resistance to spoilage and contamination.

Portable Carts

Many catering firms serving the airlines transport the food in portable, insulated and refrigerated carts. If the food is to be served warm, it is transported in portable electrically heated ovens or preheated vacuum jugs.

Water presents another problem. Because of limitations in weight, the amount that can be carried is relatively small. Tanks are carefully selected of materials which will not corrode or contaminate the water.

On older aircraft, waste water discharged overboard. On the latest planes, it is stored in retention tanks which are emptied upon landing.

All sewage is stored aboard the planes until removed by ground crews. Right now there is some thought about incinerating sewage in flight, but this is still pretty much in the research stage.

Odor-destroying substances are is discharged overboard. On the used in the retention tanks. Not only must these chemicals suppress odors for varying periods at varying temperatures, but they must not be so potent that they mask odors which might indicate leakage of gasoline or oil.

You can see the airlines are kept pretty busy keeping their passengers in good health.

Question and Answer

N. O.: Would taking vitamins daily take the place of sleep?

Answer: Although vitamins are helpful, it is advisable for you also to get enough sleep.

Jerry Lewis Gets Stars for Free Show

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Movieland was at its shining best this week when Jerry Lewis rounded up a group of TV stars to help celebrate the ninth birthday of "Little Boy Blue," who is dying of muscular dystrophy in a Massachusetts sanatorium.

But the story behind Lewis' attempt to cheer the stricken youngster on his last birthday, is as heartwarming as the show he put on.

It goes like this:

UP Story Has Reaction

United Press set off a chain reaction when it ran a story from Boston last week telling about the lonesome boy who, for four months, had no visitors or mail. "Francis X.," as he is called by the nurses, was alone in the world. His father is in prison for killing his mother.

The story came to Jerry's attention. The comedian decided to put together a closed circuit TV program for Francis. Lewis heads the muscular dystrophy campaign each year.

First he called David Sarnoff, boss man of NBC-TV and RCA in New York. Sarnoff agreed to provide the cable time for the project. Next Jerry began lining up talent for the 45-minute show.

In less than 12 hours he corraled Eddie Fisher and George Gobel—both of whom were rehearsing for their own network shows.

The word went out. Dinah Shore also busy putting together a show of her own, volunteered to sing a song, as did Mary Costa. Eddie Cantor joined the rush, and Jerry had a major production on his hands.

Jerry Lewis

He asked Sarnoff for another half-hour of time — and got it.

Then Hugh O'Brian (TV's Wyatt Earp) agreed to say hello to Francis and demonstrate his fancy gun twirling.

Talullah Bankhead, sophisticated and blase, asked if she could help, too. Jerry thanked her, but said Francis was a little young for her brand of entertaining. Talullah, near tears, departed.

Disney Chips In

The show's success was insured when Disney's Mouseketeers rushed over before their own shows to entertain young Francis.

Pinky Lee, an old trouper at entertaining small fry, donned his crazy cap and checked coat to dance and prance for "Little Boy Blue" and his friends in the sanatorium. An 18-piece band provided the music.

Unions, management, technicians, producers, big shots and "little people" donated time and money to the "party." And it was a pip.

After it was over Lewis, perspiring from his efforts, thanked his co-workers. He said "It's awfully difficult to be funny with a lump in your throat. But it's a birthday party none of us will ever forget."

World of TV—

Elvis Is Asking Big Price

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—The channel swim...

The mystery millionaire who will give away all his winnings when he begins competing on "The $64,000 Question" next Tuesday is a Tennessee industrialist. His category—"U.S. politics."

Elvis Presley, who has faded off the record charts, asked $60,000 to $75,000 from Dean Martin to appear on Martin's NBC-TV show. Martin said no thanks... "Kraft Theatre" coaxed Bert Lahr into its Nov. 13 offering on NBC-TV, "The Big Heist."

Crazy man: Frank Sinatra is filming his Christmas show for ABC-TV with Bing Crosby in color—but ABC-TV has no color facilities... "High Low," a summer replacement this year, will be back on NBC-TV in January.

Todd Gets TV Plug

Mike Todd's party next Thursday for the first birthday of "Around the World in 80 Days" (subtitle: "The Son of Sputnik") won't be as costly as everyone seems to think. The rental of Madison Square Garden for that night will cost Todd only $5,000. Ushers and other Garden help will tack on another $3,000 to $4,000. CBS-TV will televise the giant free plug.

"Studio One" which got some good news this week when its sponsor renewed for two years, also got some bad news—the Air Force refused to cooperate on a planned drama, "Course For Collision," killing off the play. The CBS-TV show, incidentally, has its first three-parter in the works—a play based on the Manhattan Project.

Debbie Reynolds turned down an offer to appear in the upcoming CBS-TV musical spec, "Junior Miss". However, Bob Cummings looks set for one of the leads... George Gobel of NBC-TV's "Eddie Gobel" show has signed on blonde singer Shirley Harmer as a regular on his show—and wasn't Miss Harmer a brunette when she was a regular on the old Dave Garroway show?

Cole First Casualty?

The NBC-TV "Nat Cole" show has the ratings wobbles and looks like the first casualty of the season—the poop around NBC has it that the Arthur Murray show may be shoved into the breach... "Playhouse 90" has so many breaks for commercials that insiders now refer to it as "Playhouse 70."

Herb Strauss, unit manager for NBC-TV's "Treasure Hunt," has just cut a record for the Riverside label — "Folk Music of People Who Hate Folk Music"... CBS-TV is shooting a special film in Portland, Ore., with Glen Ford as narrator—it's a study of what might happen to a typical American city if the A-bomb hits.

David Mayer, the psychologist who has tied Harold Craig six times on NBC-TV's "Twenty One," went on the show with the flu this past Monday—he's been in bed all week... Hallmark is trying to land Ed Wynn for its next NBC-TV effort, "On Borrowed Time."

And did you hear about the slowpoke who was so far behind that he caught virus X this winter instead of Asian flu?

Movies Off Limits

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UP)—Minors under 18 years of age were barred by a juvenile court decree today from attending theaters showing an American rock 'n roll movie. The film's title is "New York Fantasy."

Early glass was opaque because man had not yet learned the secret of adding material to produce transparency.

Fellsburg Woman's Club Bazaar Opens Tomorrow

Plans are completed for the annual bazaar to be held by the Woman's Club of Fellsburg Saturday. An invitation is extended to the public. Admission is free. The affair will open at 12 noon. During the day and evening many prizes will be given.

At noon a pet parade will be held at Lebanon school playground. Pets of any sort may be entered, and prizes will be awarded by the judges.

At 2 p.m. another big parade of bicycles, wagons, dolls and buggys will be held. Prizes will also be awarded.

Club members have been busy for weeks planning and making articles for the many booths that will be set up in the school gymnasium. In the apron booth there will be many aprons made by members of the club. The notion nook will also feature a selection of novelty items made by club members for Christmas gifts. The parcel post booth will feature packages that have been sent to club members from all over the United States especially for this event. Every package will be a surprise to the person who purchases it. The doll booth will have many dolls that have been dressed by members of the club. The bake sale will feature home baked goodies of many kinds.

Many other interesting attractions will be available. The lemon tree will hold surprise packages on every limb. At the greeting card booth, cards for every occasion can be obtained. The jewelry booth will feature many kinds of jewelry. At the fish pond, fishermen can try their luck at fishing for surprise packages.

Refreshments will be available, both for lunch and for supper. Fresh popcorn will be sold, and a cider press will make apple cider.

Ways and means chairman Mrs. Robert Kramer and bazaar chairman Mrs. Lindsay Hughes are co-chairman for this event. Other chairman and committees are:

Pet Parade: Chairman Mrs. Robert Naylor, Mrs. William Wagner, Mrs Stephen Petrus, Mrs. William Assad, Mrs. William Brown.

Pricedale Church Mission Society Holds Meeting

The Missionary Society of Pricedale Church met Wednesday with Clarence Bush in charge. It opened with the group singing "I Love to Tell The Story."

Edmond Rogers played several accordian selections, "When the Roll Is Called", "The Shelf Behind the Door", "There'll Be No Dark Valley" and "Just a Little While to Stay Here".

Following scripture, prayers were offered by Mary Worrell, Mary Echart, Rogers, Elizabeth White and Bush, with the latter also reading a poem, "He Has Done All." The following letters of appreciation were then read: Moody Bible Institute by Doris Bush, China Inland Mission by Janet Patterson, Star of Hope by Ethel Echart and Gwen Wood, Intervarsity by Mary Worrell and Sudan Interior by Paul Switzer.

Bush then read a letter from the Rev. and Mrs. George Guest, who now are in Florida. Rev. Mr. Guest just recently resigned as church pastor.

Reports were read by Mary Worrell, secretary, and Mary Echart, treasurer.

It was voted that Bible School teachers and helpers must have completed the bible school course and by 16 years or over.

At the close, Mr. Switzer, who last Sunday was elected the new pastor, expressed his appreciation "for your faith in me and my family."

He will assume his duties at the 11 a.m. services Sunday.

Flora Foulks to Lead Devotions

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Webster met Tuesday at the church with Mrs. Flora Foulks, spiritual advisor, as devotional leader.

Following opening prayer and group singing, the following gave readings: Mrs. Dorothy Wendel, "Truth of Life"; Mrs. Christine Leckenby, articles by Norman Vincent Peale, and Mrs. Ruth Whittsley, scripture.

Business was in charge of Mrs. Walker, acting president. Reports were made by Ann Deshong, treasurer; Mrs. Knight, secretary, and Mrs. Leckenby, flowers. Plans were advanced for the Christmas party, which is yet unscheduled.

Hostesses were Mrs. Elma Connolly and Mrs. Whittsley. Others present were Mrs. Ada Adams, Mrs. Marie Brooks and Mrs. Lillie Butter.

Death Postpones Webster P. T. A. Meet

The Webster Parent-Teacher Association will not meet Tuesday as scheduled because of the death of its president, Mrs. Elizabeth Bryce.

Mrs. Kathyrn Jugan, vice president, will conduct the Oct. 22 meeting.

Paul Switzer will be principal speaker at the Sunday night services at Webster Methodist Church. On Oct. 20, the Rev. Anna Potter will speak.

Syria Formally Protests to Turkey

By UNITED PRESS

Syria disclosed today it had formally accused Turkey of new provocations along the border and of interfering in the internal affairs of Syria.

It was the latest of a series of moves that has brought the United States and the Soviet Union face to face in the Middle East.

The danger of a flareup in the Middle East led the U.S. State Department Thursday to warn Russia that the United States will honor its defense commitments to Turkey.

Communist diplomatic sources in London made it clear the Kremlin expects the Middle East to blow up somewhere near the Turkish border, and the sources repeated Moscow's warning that Russia would assist Syria.

Both Syria and Soviet Russia have accused Turkey in recent weeks of massing troops near the border, and Monday there was a 45-minute and potentially dangerous border skirmish between Syrian and Turkish troops.

Official sources in Damascus disclosed today Syria has sent a stern note to Ankara Wednesday accusing Turkey of "unjustified provocative actions" along the border.

These included the old charges of massing of troops and added allegations that Turkey had flown planes over Syrian territory and that Turkish soldiers fired at Syrian border residents.

Members of the Syrian Parliament already had demanded arms for villages and towns to defend against "mounting Turkish provocative acts" and demanded establishment of "public resistance groups."

The Syrian press said a helicopter believed to be American "violated" Syrian air space over the border district of Midan Ikbis Thursday.

The State Department warning to Russia followed a statement in Moscow earlier this week by Soviet Communist Party Leader Nikita Khrushchev that the United States is trying to incite Turkey into war with Russian - backed Syria.

Communist diplomatic sources in London issued warnings of their own to the United States. They said Russia "inevitably" would intervene if Turkey should become involved in hostilities.
